Ohio's Education Outlay 'Too Low'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—School and state-supported universities in Ohio are facing serious problems, an advisory committee of the Second Statehouse Conference on Education was told Tuesday.

Financing is the major problem, said William Ware, chairman of the conference and also assistant Sunday and feature editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ohio's children will need about 116,000 more teachers, 36,000 more classrooms and about 400 million dollars by 1970 if proper education is to be continued, he said.

In the next 10 years, enrollment at the universities will jump from 96,000 fulltime students at 175,000, Ware added.

Some 100 representatives from civic, state and industrial organizations attended the meeting.

There is only $330 behind each Ohio school child Ware said, placing us far below New York's leading $535 and 25th in the country in total amount of money given to educate each child.

Only 19.6 per cent of Ohio's high school pupils go on to college, Ware said, putting the state 23rd among the states in this regard.

The Cleveland newspaper editor called for a reorganization of the structure of Ohio's school districts.

Of the 962 districts in the state, 420 of them have fewer than 240 students, making for expensive education, he said.

The Second Statehouse Conference will consist of six regional conferences at which representatives will discuss the needs of higher education.

Two local meetings in each region will be held. Here representatives will be picked to attend the state conference early next year when delegates will decide upon recommendations affecting education.

These recommendations, Ware said, will be distributed throughout Ohio to legislators, school superintendents and local citizenry.

The location, dates and chairm for the six regional meetings are:

Central Ohio, Ohio State University, April 14, Waterman M. Baldwin; Northwest Ohio, April 20, Bowling Green State University, Gordon Jeffrey; Northeast Ohio, April 22, Kent State University, Judge James G. France; Greater Cleveland area April 30, Western Reserve University, Chalmar Lutz, Southwest Ohio, April 23, Miami University, Darwin Palmiere, and Southeast Ohio, April 19, Ohio University, no chairman named yet.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle will act as honorary chairman of the conference.

City Council Passes Subdivision Rules

Circleville now has regulations governing subdivisions.

The rules ordinance was passed last night by City Council. The vote was 6-1, with Boyd Horn against the measure.

It was the second reading of the 16-page ordinance, which is the second step in the proces. of adopting a Master Plan for the city.

Subdivision regulations set out the manner in which areas are to be subdivided, lot sizes, locations, utilities and streets. All subdivisions in the city limits, and within three miles of the city limits fall under the regulations.

Now two of the four parts of the Master Plan have been adopted—the thoroughfare plan and subdivision regulations. Left to the approved are a building code and an updated zoning law.

* * *

SUBDIVIDERS were in favor of adoption of the plan. They feel stringent regulations will be of benefit to the city and will keep "fly - by - night" developers from throwing up shabby type housing in the surrounding area.

From the effective date of the ordinance subdividers will have to submit all plats and plans to the City Planning & Zoning Commission. If they meet the requirements set out in the rules, they will be approved and sent to City Council for final passage.

Details in the regulations require certain size lots, street widths and surfaces, provisions for water, sewer and other utilities, the general layout of lots and streets.

Burgess & Niple, Columbus engineering firm and consultants to the city, wrote the regulations. They are patterned after Columbus subdivisions rules. The regulations first were approved by the City Planning & Zoning Commission and then submitted to Council for approval.

Senator Says Voters Show He Can Win

6 of 10 Congressional Districts Go to Massachusetts Solon

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Victory over a formidable opponent in the new punch and power today behind Sen. John F. Kennedy's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The result was clear-cut, but not as big as his aides had hoped.

Kennedy said, however, "I would think the Democratic leaders would find it very helpful."

The election demonstrated, he claimed, that he can attract votes among the farmers, labor unions, and non-Catholics.

Kennedy, a Massachusetts Catholic, defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, a Protestant. For years, Humphrey has championed the Midwest farmers. In Tuesday's election he was supported by top leadership of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, unopposed in the Republican primary, did not come into the hard-fought campaign. He ran third.

With 3,428 of 3,446 precincts reported unofficial tabulations showed: Kennedy 474,023; Humphrey 369,442; Nixon 342,851.

This gave Kennedy slightly more than 56 per cent of the Democratic vote and victories in six of the 10 congressional districts.

It also allocated 20 Wisconsin delegate votes in the Democratic National Convention to Kennedy and 10 to Humphrey. Each also will received a half vote from the ballot shared by the state's two national committee members, who split their support.

Even before the final count was in, the vote broke the previous record, set in 1952, of 1,018,149.

Coming on the heels of his spectacular sweep in New Hamnshire last month, this was Kennedy's second straight victory in an important presidential primary.

Wisconsin was not a spectacular triumph for him.

He had said that winning six district races, plus a majority of the popular vote, would constitute a victory for him. "Anything else would be gravy," Kennedy said.

There was no gravy.

But Kennedy said he was delighted with the result. He added, "I never took the view that we could win all 10 districts despite the pollsters. If we end up with 57 per cent of the Democratic vote we will be doing very well."

Humphrey said the election caused him no pain.

East Area Sewer District Planned

Last night City Council authorized the City Solicitor to prepare legislation for the formation of a new sewer district along the eastern boundary of the community.

The new district, to be known as Sewer District No. 2, would include the Raymond Rader Addn., Garden City Addn., and Nicholas Drive area, Valentine and Himrod land and also an area of 143 acres east of General Electric.

Preliminary cost figures are $156,000, with the whole being assessed to the benefitted property owned. Estimates show the cost to be about $300 an acre.

The sanitary trunk sewer would run from a point in the Rader Addn. south through Garden City, Valentine and Himrod properties, thence west through Eshelman land, across Pickaway and Court Sts., and tie into the Ted Lewis Park lift station.

An extension would run to the Watt St. station and thence southeast to the area east of General Electric.

* * *

COUNCIL also authorized the solicotor to prepare an ordinance setting tap-on fees for sewer taps. The fee will be based on the number of acres served. All future taps onto city sewers will be assessed.

Utilities Manager Erwin Leist told Council last night that the city's permit to discharge sewage into the Scioto River has been extended to September 15. It is contingent upon the city conferring with officials of the Container Corporation of America as to whether or into the industry will continue to cooperate with the city in treatment of wastes.

Leist is to plan a meeting of the City Utilities Board, City Council and Container officials.

George Fissell attended the meeting as a member of the Board of Elections, to explain possible relocation of precinct lines within the city. A Council Committee of Boyd Horn, David Crawford and Harold Clifton will meet with the Board on the matter.

High Street Building Is Too Old

Old High Street Building

Before the first telephone, before Rutherford B. Hayes was handed the Presidency over Samuel Tilden by Congress, before the modern bicycle was invented — that's when High Street School was built.

This most-ancient of local buildings is 86 years old. It looks it.

If citizens approve the $1,475,500 bond issue on the May 3 ballot, the High Street building will be torn down and replaced by a modern 10-room, one-story structure.

Today 156 students attend Grades 1 through 6 at High Street. They do not have the same advantages as do the students in the city's newer school buildings. It's a shame, too, because the children are just as nice at High Street as at the rest of the new buildings.

Some may ask, "What's wrong with the old building?" Here is the answer:

High Street school is old brick and wood construction It is NOT fire safe. It is "ripe" for a disaster, with youngsters between 6 and 12 caughe in the middle.

The interior is old, dry, wood. Dust is lying thick in the dingy, third-story attic. A huge stairwell provides a chimney directly up through the center of the building.

High ceilings and steep stairs make the structure hard to maintain. The steep stairs are a hazard to youngsters. It's a 20-foot fall from the second story to the first.

Some of the stairs are pulling away from the wall, and creak ominously when being traversed by a class of children.

There are obsolete fire escapes from the building. They won't pass inspection, however, since they run down the side of the building past window openings.

The building is worn out. It has served its purpose. The State Department of Education believes it is not worth remodeling. Architects say the cost of remodeling would be prohibitive, and the basic structure still would be old.

High Street School district is stable. There is not much change in school population from year to year. Actually, it is an ideal school district—not small, not large. The site of the present building is good, near the middle of the district.

The proposed building will give students in this district equal educational opportunity. It will have 10 rooms, a multi-purpose room, showers and dressing room, office and handwork room.

The Board of Education would like to acquire additional land to the east of the present building. That would involve purchasing some of the old High Street Cemetery. Cleaning up this ancient eyesore in itself would benefit the entire city.

If cost of buying the cemetery is prohibitive, the Board has another spot in mind nearby which would make a good school site.

In addition to the obvious advantages of a new building for the High Street district, such as, sanitation, safety, bright and flexible classroom space, there are other advantages.

These include a cafeteria, an assembly area, a school safety patrol, physical education facilities.

Some persons have asked why not build a two-story building on the present site? The architects say that a one-story building is less costly, despite the fact that additional site would have to be purchased.

Certainly, the fine youngsters who attend High Street School deserve better school facilities. Voters on May 3 will have a chance to give them a school equal to others in the city.

The Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors yesterday endorsed passage of the $1,475,500 school bond issue.

Board members yesterday noon watched the slides and heard the explanation of the bond issue, then asked questions regarding the plan. The vote to endorse the issue was unanimous.

DiSalle Cries 'Shameful' at Note Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has called "shameful" an anonymous letter to him protesting next Sunday's scheduled rally on the Statehouse steps in support of racial boycotts.

The meeting was called by the Columbus chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) to urge a boycott of stores in national chains made targets in southern demonstrations.

The letter, signed "The Advocates of Decency," claimed the meeting on Palm Sunday was designed to promote violence and disregard for the law in Columbus, the state and nation.

"State property," DiSalle answered, "is certainly a place where people should be permitted to assemble and give vent to their grievances if they feel that such exists.

"Permission has been granted, and it is hoped that the right of peaceful assembly be observed by all citizens, regardless of race, creed or color.

"It seems particularly fitting that this meeting be hed on Palm Sunday, since it is the beginning of a week in which a great part of the world pays recognition to the results of intolerance, prejudice and bigotry on the part of unthinking citizens."

DiSalle said his reply to the anonymous letter was made public because the writer was unidentified and no address given for the Advocates of Decency. The letter was postmarked Columbus.

African Whites To Crush Boycott

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Government officials served notice today they will press their police drive against Negro "inciters and intimidators" until South Africa's work boycott is crushed.

Brig. C. J. Els, assistant national police commissioner, warned in a newspaper statement:

"We will not rest until we have rooted them all out."

Police moved into an African hostel at Lamontville this morning and confiscated clubs, axes, picks, sharpened pieces of steel and three guns. Negroes—the police called them "agitrators and intimidators"—had held the hostel near Durban on the east coast since Monday night. The takeover was accomplished without violence.

Tuesday night in Lamontville one African was shot dead and four wounded as police battled a crowd of 1,000 who were trying to take reprisals against Negroes returning from work.

Appeals for the government to negotiate with responsible Negro leaders and to moderate its strict racial policies came from leaders of business, church and the opposition United party. M. D. de Wet Nel, national minister of Bantu (Negro) administration, said in a speech that "South Africa's present racial policy is the right one and it will continue to be followed by the government."

Underlining its determination to give no ground, the government pressed for quick Senate approval of a bill to outlaw the two leading Negro political organizations, the Pan Africanist Congress and the more moderate African National Congress.

Calls for a softening of the government's tough racial policy came from D. E. Mitchell, leader of the opposition United party in Natal province; the presidents of the Port Elizabeth and Pretoria Chambers of Commerce and 14 Anglican ministers in Cape Province.

Justice Minister F. C. Erasmus defended the police action. He told Parliament the police are, "insofar as circumstances permit, exercising self-control and patience."

Violence continued in various parts of South Africa Tuesday as authorities tried to herd Negroes back to work. Two dead were reported and there were many injured, including some police.

Decision Near On Type of Ashville Lights

The Ashville Council expects to reach a decision in the near future on the type of street light it prefers, according to clerk Robert Glick.

The vilage council Monday heard salesmen from two electrical companies present the functions of their street lights. The group received bids on both types.

Jim Dislter, salesman from the Joslyn Manufacturing Co., and Kenneth Satterfield and Kenneth Flint, representing the Westinghouse Electric Co., were on hand to bid for the street lighting contract.

Council also discussed written and verbal requests for changes in the proposed street lighting locations. It observed each location and unanimously agreed that poles were placed in proper positions for the best lighting effect.

CLAUDE WARD, street commissioner, received an increase in salary from $1.87 a hour to $2 an hour. The new rate will be effective May 1.

Bozman advised him that the village had asked for, but never received, a bond and would appreciate immediate action upon its request,

"Otherwise, council will halt further three - month advanced collection of trash fees due the next quarter. If the bond is not furnished, I will refuse to issue a permit for you to operate on the streets of Ashville," Bosman concluded.

The vote for Nixon also was open to interpretation. He had no opposition to stir GOP interest and he did not campaign in Wisconsin.

Kennedy got the industrial First Wisconsin District, a tribute to his apparently superior pull with organized labor. He took the eastern side of Wisconsin where the Roman Catholic vote is strong. He ran well in normally Republican areas.

This division of the spoils did Kennedy no good in his attempts to mute the issue raised by his Catholicism. Instead, it emphassized that he was strongest where the Catholics are most numerous.

It generated the suspicion that Republicans ignored their own primary and crossed over to vote for him as the man they regard as the easiest Democrat to beat in November.

It seemed implicit these issues would continue to plague Kennedy until he tests his strength in nearly solid Protestant territory such as West Virginia. In that state only Democrats will vote their preference between Kennedy and cannot obtain Democratic ballots as they did in Wisconsin.

Heiress, Chauffeur Seek Carolina Marriage Permit

DILLON, S.C. (AP)—An American heiress and her Romanian-born chauffeur who failed in an effort to wed in Paris last Christmas have come to the Carolina tobacco country seeking to seal their love in marriage.

Gamble Benedict and her dark-haired, smiling sweetheart, Andre Porumbeanu, filed their application for a marriage license Thursday. The license will be available late today under South Carolina's 24-hour waiting period.

In New York, the Benedict family's lawyer said: "This time he will not get away with it. All necessary measures will be taken to effect her return home."

The 19-year-old heiress to the Remington typewriter fortune and her 35-year-old suitor, now a hair stylist, vanished Monday from New York City. A Brooklyn magistrate issued a warrant for her arrest.

Miss Benedict is charged with being a wayward minor. She already was a ward of the court as an outgrowth of her trip to France last December aboard a small oil tanker with Porumbeanu.

The couple took an oath here that they were legally eligible to marriage.

"I read that to them," said Probate Judge Walter E. Allen, who received the application. "I told them, now you young people have had a lot of publicity and I want you to realize what you're swearing to."

After leaving the courthouse, they disappeared.

African Whites To Crush Boycott

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Government officials served notice today they will press their police drive against Negro "inciters and intimidators" until South Africa's work boycott is crushed.

Brig. C. J. Els, assistant national police commissioner, warned in a newspaper statement:

"We will not rest until we have rooted them all out."

Police moved into an African hostel at Lamontville this morning and confiscated clubs, axes, picks, sharpened pieces of steel and three guns. Negroes—the police called them "agitrators and intimidators"—had held the hostel near Durban on the east coast since Monday night. The takeover was accomplished without violence.

Tuesday night in Lamontville one African was shot dead and four wounded as police battled a crowd of 1,000 who were trying to take reprisals against Negroes returning from work.

Appeals for the government to negotiate with responsible Negro leaders and to moderate its strict racial policies came from leaders of business, church and the opposition United party. M. D. de Wet Nel, national minister of Bantu (Negro) administration, said in a speech that "South Africa's present racial policy is the right one and it will continue to be followed by the government."

Underlining its determination to give no ground, the government pressed for quick Senate approval of a bill to outlaw the two leading Negro political organizations, the Pan Africanist Congress and the more moderate African National Congress.

Calls for a softening of the government's tough racial policy came from D. E. Mitchell, leader of the opposition United party in Natal province; the presidents of the Port Elizabeth and Pretoria Chambers of Commerce and 14 Anglican ministers in Cape Province.

Justice Minister F. C. Erasmus defended the police action. He told Parliament the police are, "insofar as circumstances permit, exercising self-control and patience."

Violence continued in various parts of South Africa Tuesday as authorities tried to herd Negroes back to work. Two dead were reported and there were many injured, including some police.

Heiress, Chauffeur Seek Carolina Marriage Permit

DILLON, S.C. (AP)—An American heiress and her Romanian-born chauffeur who failed in an effort to wed in Paris last Christmas have come to the Carolina tobacco country seeking to seal their love in marriage.

Gamble Benedict and her dark-haired, smiling sweetheart, Andre Porumbeanu, filed their application for a marriage license Thursday. The license will be available late today under South Carolina's 24-hour waiting period.

In New York, the Benedict family's lawyer said: "This time he will not get away with it. All necessary measures will be taken to effect her return home."

The 19-year-old heiress to the Remington typewriter fortune and her 35-year-old suitor, now a hair stylist, vanished Monday from New York City. A Brooklyn magistrate issued a warrant for her arrest.

Miss Benedict is charged with being a wayward minor. She already was a ward of the court as an outgrowth of her trip to France last December aboard a small oil tanker with Porumbeanu.

The couple took an oath here that they were legally eligible to marriage.

"I read that to them," said Probate Judge Walter E. Allen, who received the application. "I told them, now you young people have had a lot of publicity and I want you to realize what you're swearing to."

After leaving the courthouse, they disappeared.

Handwriting Help Needed

Good handwriting, once high on the list of social accomplishments but not so for many years, appears to be finding favor again.

A factor in this prospect is the concern of many American businessmen who say their firms lose large sums every year because of carelessly scrawled bills. Some companies are conducting handwriting classes for their employes.

In the era of the telephone and the typewriter, when there is less dependence upon communication in the handwritten form, penmanship receives less emphasis in schools generally than in the past. But interest has been stirring in the U. S. and it has been paralleled in England.

For the last two years an exhibit collected by London's Society of Italic Handwriting has been touring the United States. American pen manufacturers have formed the Handwriting Foundation in Washington to promote better penmanship. A non-profit organization providing instruction upon request, it is being kept busy by appeals from schools, individuals and businesses.

It cannot be denied that there is a need to keep the handwriting of Americans from getting any worse than it is. Casual notes recieved from friends can usually be deciphered, with some effort. But who hasn't been mystified by his own scribbling in a memorandum he dashed off a month or a year ago?

Midas Can Add to Safety

It's only 30 minutes by intercontinental ballistic missile from Moscow to Washington — or most other points in the United States. Death is only 30 minutes away.

Dectection systems now under construction in Greenland, northern England and Alaska would give 15 minutes warning if Moscow decided not to coexist and sent a missile this way. These systems will use ballistic missile early warning radar, called BMEWS.

But 15 minutes isn't much time for getting our own aircraft aloft and preparing to fire anti-missile missiles, to say nothing of alerting Civil Defense. So the Defense Department is preparing to speed development of a newer system which might give us the full 30 minutes warning. The extra 15 minutes could make quite a difference.

The new system would use Midas satellites circling over the Arctic. A Midas is to be capable of detecting infra-red radiation from a missile's exhaust within a fraction of a second after it is launched. The principle has been established, but some technical details will have to be worked out before we can be sure of its reliability. An attempt to launch an experimental model of a Midas in February failed.

National security, like war, is affected by the endless race between offense and defense. Periodically offensive weapons get a big edge, then defensive weapons slowly catch up.

When BMEWS is finished and Midases of proved capacity are in orbit, Americans and the free world generally will be safer.

Soliloquy to a 25-Year Pin

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — A landmark in the history of American industry passed unnoticed by the public at large last week.

It wasn't a major landmark to anyone else but it was to me.

I got my 25-year pin.

Anybody who can work a quarter of a century for the same organization without being found out deserves some sort of recognition. Most firms do have a ceremony for such an occasion.

In our outfit you get a letter of praise from the boss and a 25-year gold pin to wear in your lapel.

The pin was presented at a two-martini lunch last Friday — April Fool's Day by an odd coincidence. After it shone resplendent in my lapel, I sat there waiting to be called on for my speech.

I had spent some two weeks preparing this speech, and it would have been a humdinger I can tell you. I was prepared to summarize my 25 years of loyal devotion in a crisp three-hour address which would have made William Jennings Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" oration seem like kindergarten prattle.

Unfortunately, I was never called upon. Once I had been given my pin, my conferers fell to talking about the weather and the baseball season.

My whole contribution to the occasion was a weak "Thank you."

Later I found out why. No one wants to listen to a mere 25-year man fueled with two martinis. He is still too strong. He can talk too long.

You don't get to make a speech until you get your 50-year pin. By then you're too weak to say much.

On the way home, I showed the subway man my gleaming new 25-year gold pin. "That's worth a free ride today, buddy. Never mind putting in a token. Just crawl under the turnstile. Nobody's looking," he said.

When I told my wife proudly I was now a member of the office 25-year club, she threw her arms around me and said, "Oh, you poor thing" — as if I had come down with a strange new virus.

My young daughter critically inspected my lapel pin, and went back to her first-grade reader after remarking, "Big deal, Daddy."

They can kid you all they want to, however.

You have survived the erosion of time in a hard century. You have given your firm some of your teeth, most of your hair, a great part of your heart, many of your dreams.

You have not fallen by the way. You have endured; and merely to endure in this world proves something.

You are no longer a cub, a beginner, an apprentice. You are an old-timer entitled to the respect the experience of an old-timer deserves.

So you start making notes on the speech you intend to deliver when they give you your 50-year pin. The next time they won't get off so easy.

Ministers and Politicians

By George Sokolsky

And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people that asked of him a king. And he said:

"This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: he will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

"And he will take your daughters to be confectioners, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants . . ."

This is politics. It was actually spoken in the course of a political campaign, for Saul had set out to be a king, and the Prophet was advising the tribes of Isreal that it was an unwise political decision to have a king.

Samuel was a Prophet. I thought of this passage in the Bible as I continued to read about churches as to the role of the Ministry. Some contend that it is not the function of a minister to take a political position, to advocate a political cause or to associate himself with a political movement.

In the history of the United States, the clergy have played a role. The Congregationalists of Massachusetts, the Baptists in Rhode Island, the Roman Catholics in Maryland, the Quakers in Pennsylvania are a few of the numerous religious groups who settled here and whose leaders participated in our earliest political life.

Neither the Elder Brewster nor Cotton Mather nor Roger Williams can be disregarded as political figures in their day, nor can it be said that Henry Ward Beecher did not play an enormous role in the politics of his day. Dr. Lyman Beecher (1775-1863), in his great sermon on dueling, said:

"When we intrust life, and liberty, and property to the hands of men, we desire some pledge of their fidelity. But what pledge can the duelist give? His religious principle is nothing; his moral principle is nothing. His honor is our only security. But is this sufficient?

"Are the temptations of power so feeble, are the public and private interest so inseparable, are the opportunities for fraud so few, that, amid the projects of ambition, the cravings of avarice, and the conflicts of party, there is no need of conscience to guarantee the integrity of rulers?. . ."

Certainly such men as Thomas Hooker, the great Congregational cleric of the 17th Century, played an enormous role in the political development of colonial America. Many of Hooker's ideas of freedom and tolerance became foundation stones of the eventual American Constitution.

I could go on and on citing the political activities of individual ministers as well as clerical groups in the political life of America. It has always been held in our history that this is a moral society, based on the Natural Law, as is stated in the Declaration of Independence Ministers are personally and professionally concerned with morals.

The assumption that a man becomes a secondary citizen because he joins the Ministry is false in the American theory of life and government, first because we do not accept classes, and secondly because we do not deprive a citizen of his rights because of his job.

There are those who insist that because a man devotes his life to religion, he should have no voice in the immorailties of poltical life. Way back in the beginnings of our country, John Wise (1652-1725; wrote:

". . . The end of all good government is to cultivate humanity, and promote the happiness of all, and the good of every man in all his rights, his life, liberty, estate, honor, &c. without injury or abuse done to any. . ."

This is politics — good politics, the kind we need today. It is necessary to have a constructive, positive ideal of life in order to negate an evil. The clergy, of all faiths, can still contribute much to these days.

Breathing Too Much?

By Herman N. Bundesen, M. D.

Most of us are guilty of overbreathing at one time or another.

Fortunately, the condition seldom becomes serious enough to be realy troublesome.

It can, however, cause difficulties such as sensations of numbness or tingling in various portions of the body, weakness, dizziness, headache or pains in the chest or abdomen. In extreme cases, a person may lose consciousness.

Oberbreathing occurs when you exhale too much carbon dioxide either by breathing too rapidly or too deeply. Lack of sufficient carbon dioxide disrupts the body's acidity and alkalinity balance.

Generally, overbreathing is done unconsciously. Excitement or tension might be a cause; so might worry.

Sighing repeatedly for some length of time also can cut the carbon dioxide in your body to a dangerous level.

But the usual cause of over breathing is physical exertion.

A game of tennis or softball, a brisk run or a swim—any of these things is apt to start most of us panting pretty heavily. And that is one form, the most common form, of overbreathing.

Usually the symptoms are minor and seldom are they cause for worry.

However, if you suspect that over breathing may be causing you temporary trouble, your doctor might suggest that you try breathing into a paper bag. By doing this, you inhale the carbon dioxide you previously exhaled, thus solving the basic cause of the problem and alleviating the symptoms.

What about the unconscious overbreathing reaction to emotional upsets?

Well, doctors have drugs available which might be of value in treating such conditions. Or, maybe merely discussing the patient's problems openly and frankly will ease the tension and thereby eliminate the overbreathing trouble.

Question And Answer

F. H.: What are the signs of tuberculosis of the bowels?

Answer: Tuberculosis of the bowels is often associated with diarrhea, blood or pus in the stools, abdominal pains, low grade fever and, occasionally, a mass in the abdomen.

Typical x-ray findings, proctoscopic findings, and the recovery of the stool makes the diagnosis.

Math Teachers To Get TV Course

CLEVELAND (AP)—At 8 a.m. April 19 some 2,000 math teachers will gather before television sets at several points in the Cleveland area in the inaugural of an experiment aimed at teaching teachers new ways to teach.

The once-a-week TV classes will be taught by Dr. Bernard H. Gundlach, associate mathematics professor at Bowling Green State University. He is an advisor to the Educational Research Council of Greater Cleveland.

The council and station KYW-TV (Channel 3) are conducting the eight - week experiment. Dr. George H. Baird, executive director of the council, said the half-hour classes are expected to replace three to six hours of regular university lectures in new methods of teaching arithmetic and mathematics.

Surgery Seen As Cure for Paroled Man

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A man whose personality may have been overhauled by a surgeon's knife was paroled Monday.

Dr. David Owens, chief of the California Medical Facility, said he would bet money that Victor Hungerford won't be back.

Hungerford, 39, is a former Army major who won combat ribbons in World War II and Korea, where a shell explosion may have started his trouble.

The shell didn't wound Hungerford in the conventional sense, but his history shows deteriorating conduct, headaches, blackouts and amnesic episodes followed the explosion.

He was dishonorably discharged from the Army in 1955, and spent eight months in a disciplinary barracks. After release, he was committed to two California mental hospitals and later was sentenced to prison for passing bad checks.

He was sent to Vacaville's Medical Facility where doctors operated, found a cyst on the brain's left frontal lobe and removed it.

Dr. Owens said Hungerford's headaches stopped and the blackouts ceased, his erratic behavior smoothed out, and he came calm and relaxed.

Hungerford has a job selling real estate at Red Bluff in northern California.

First Indians, Now Italians Oppose Hollywood Labels

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — First the Indians were on the warpath over how they are portrayed by Hollywood.

Now come the Sons of Italy with a similar beef. The group's Grand Council of Pennsylvania blasted the broad use of the term "Mafia" in films and TV, especially "The Untouchables" series.

An official was quoted in Variety: "If they are afraid to say 'Italian' or use Italian names for criminals, they say 'Mafia.' This is the same thing. By saying 'Mafia,' they are saying crime is controlled by Italian-Americans. This is a dastardly attack and it is not warranted."

The complaint gets support from a famous son of Italy, Ernest Borgnine. Yet he is in the curious position of having to defend himself on the same score.

Borgnine told of receiving a letter of protest from a New York editor for his participation in a film about the beginnings of the Mafia in this country, "Pay or Die."

"I explained to him," said the actor, "That I was portraying an Italian-American whose very heroism almost stamped out the Mafia in this country.

"He was Joe Petrosino, a New York cop who was a friend of Theodore Roosevelt and was honored by the King of Italy. He was the first one to suspect there was a criminal hierarchy and he convinced the commissioner to create the Italian squad. He also got permission to go to Italy to seek the real leader of what was then called the Black Hand. He was shot down in the streets of Palermo in 1909."

There is another side to the argument. Hollywood has always gotten protests over how Indians, Italians, Negroes, dentists and lawyers are portrayed. It reached the point where the only safe villian was a white Protestant American—or a Russian.

Borgnine's answer: "I don't think you should go to far in the other direction, either. If a gangster is Italian Jewish or Irish, play him as an Italian, a Jew or an Irishman. But don't overdo the character. Too often it becomes a caricature."

Ex-Policeman Freed By Columbus Jury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Franklin County Criminal Court jury has acquitted a former Columbus police sergeant of grand larceny charges.

The defendant, James A. Faris, was one of eight Columbus policemen dismissed from the force after an investigation last fall into thefts by officers.

The jury Monday deliberated almost 4½ hours before finding Faris innocent on two larceny counts—stealing two air conditioners last June 43 and two ranges and two ovens last July 29.

A member of the jury said later that the first vote was 8-4 for conviction.

Friday, at a meeting of the Columbus Civil Service Commission, Faris will start his fight to get back his policeman's job.

Handwriting Help Needed

Good handwriting, once high on the list of social accomplishments but not so for many years, appears to be finding favor again.

A factor in this prospect is the concern of many American businessmen who say their firms lose large sums every year because of carelessly scrawled bills. Some companies are conducting handwriting classes for their employes.

In the era of the telephone and the typewriter, when there is less dependence upon communication in the handwritten form, penmanship receives less emphasis in schools generally than in the past. But interest has been stirring in the U. S. and it has been paralleled in England.

For the last two years an exhibit collected by London's Society of Italic Handwriting has been touring the United States. American pen manufacturers have formed the Handwriting Foundation in Washington to promote better penmanship. A non-profit organization providing instruction upon request, it is being kept busy by appeals from schools, individuals and businesses.

It cannot be denied that there is a need to keep the handwriting of Americans from getting any worse than it is. Casual notes recieved from friends can usually be deciphered, with some effort. But who hasn't been mystified by his own scribbling in a memorandum he dashed off a month or a year ago?

Midas Can Add to Safety

It's only 30 minutes by intercontinental ballistic missile from Moscow to Washington — or most other points in the United States. Death is only 30 minutes away.

Dectection systems now under construction in Greenland, northern England and Alaska would give 15 minutes warning if Moscow decided not to coexist and sent a missile this way. These systems will use ballistic missile early warning radar, called BMEWS.

But 15 minutes isn't much time for getting our own aircraft aloft and preparing to fire anti-missile missiles, to say nothing of alerting Civil Defense. So the Defense Department is preparing to speed development of a newer system which might give us the full 30 minutes warning. The extra 15 minutes could make quite a difference.

The new system would use Midas satellites circling over the Arctic. A Midas is to be capable of detecting infra-red radiation from a missile's exhaust within a fraction of a second after it is launched. The principle has been established, but some technical details will have to be worked out before we can be sure of its reliability. An attempt to launch an experimental model of a Midas in February failed.

National security, like war, is affected by the endless race between offense and defense. Periodically offensive weapons get a big edge, then defensive weapons slowly catch up.

When BMEWS is finished and Midases of proved capacity are in orbit, Americans and the free world generally will be safer.

Soliloquy to a 25-Year Pin

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — A landmark in the history of American industry passed unnoticed by the public at large last week.

It wasn't a major landmark to anyone else but it was to me.

I got my 25-year pin.

Anybody who can work a quarter of a century for the same organization without being found out deserves some sort of recognition. Most firms do have a ceremony for such an occasion.

In our outfit you get a letter of praise from the boss and a 25-year gold pin to wear in your lapel.

The pin was presented at a two-martini lunch last Friday — April Fool's Day by an odd coincidence. After it shone resplendent in my lapel, I sat there waiting to be called on for my speech.

I had spent some two weeks preparing this speech, and it would have been a humdinger I can tell you. I was prepared to summarize my 25 years of loyal devotion in a crisp three-hour address which would have made William Jennings Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" oration seem like kindergarten prattle.

Unfortunately, I was never called upon. Once I had been given my pin, my conferers fell to talking about the weather and the baseball season.

My whole contribution to the occasion was a weak "Thank you."

Later I found out why. No one wants to listen to a mere 25-year man fueled with two martinis. He is still too strong. He can talk too long.

You don't get to make a speech until you get your 50-year pin. By then you're too weak to say much.

On the way home, I showed the subway man my gleaming new 25-year gold pin. "That's worth a free ride today, buddy. Never mind putting in a token. Just crawl under the turnstile. Nobody's looking," he said.

When I told my wife proudly I was now a member of the office 25-year club, she threw her arms around me and said, "Oh, you poor thing" — as if I had come down with a strange new virus.

My young daughter critically inspected my lapel pin, and went back to her first-grade reader after remarking, "Big deal, Daddy."

They can kid you all they want to, however.

You have survived the erosion of time in a hard century. You have given your firm some of your teeth, most of your hair, a great part of your heart, many of your dreams.

You have not fallen by the way. You have endured; and merely to endure in this world proves something.

You are no longer a cub, a beginner, an apprentice. You are an old-timer entitled to the respect the experience of an old-timer deserves.

So you start making notes on the speech you intend to deliver when they give you your 50-year pin. The next time they won't get off so easy.

Ministers and Politicians

By George Sokolsky

And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people that asked of him a king. And he said:

"This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: he will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

"And he will take your daughters to be confectioners, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants . . ."

This is politics. It was actually spoken in the course of a political campaign, for Saul had set out to be a king, and the Prophet was advising the tribes of Isreal that it was an unwise political decision to have a king.

Samuel was a Prophet. I thought of this passage in the Bible as I continued to read about churches as to the role of the Ministry. Some contend that it is not the function of a minister to take a political position, to advocate a political cause or to associate himself with a political movement.

In the history of the United States, the clergy have played a role. The Congregationalists of Massachusetts, the Baptists in Rhode Island, the Roman Catholics in Maryland, the Quakers in Pennsylvania are a few of the numerous religious groups who settled here and whose leaders participated in our earliest political life.

Neither the Elder Brewster nor Cotton Mather nor Roger Williams can be disregarded as political figures in their day, nor can it be said that Henry Ward Beecher did not play an enormous role in the politics of his day. Dr. Lyman Beecher (1775-1863), in his great sermon on dueling, said:

"When we intrust life, and liberty, and property to the hands of men, we desire some pledge of their fidelity. But what pledge can the duelist give? His religious principle is nothing; his moral principle is nothing. His honor is our only security. But is this sufficient?

"Are the temptations of power so feeble, are the public and private interest so inseparable, are the opportunities for fraud so few, that, amid the projects of ambition, the cravings of avarice, and the conflicts of party, there is no need of conscience to guarantee the integrity of rulers?. . ."

Certainly such men as Thomas Hooker, the great Congregational cleric of the 17th Century, played an enormous role in the political development of colonial America. Many of Hooker's ideas of freedom and tolerance became foundation stones of the eventual American Constitution.

I could go on and on citing the political activities of individual ministers as well as clerical groups in the political life of America. It has always been held in our history that this is a moral society, based on the Natural Law, as is stated in the Declaration of Independence. Ministers are personally and professionally concerned with morals.

The assumption that a man becomes a secondary citizen because he joins the Ministry is false in the American theory of life and government, first because we do not accept classes, and secondly because we do not deprive a citizen of his rights because of his job.

There are those who insist that because a man devotes his life to religion, he should have no voice in the immorailties of political life. Way back in the beginnings of our country, John Wise (1652-1725; wrote:

". . . The end of all good government is to cultivate humanity, and promote the happiness of all, and the good of every man in all his rights, his life, liberty, estate, honor, &c. without injury or abuse done to any. . ."

This is politics — good politics, the kind we need today. It is necessary to have a constructive, positive ideal of life in order to negate an evil. The clergy, of all faiths, can still contribute much to these days.

U.S. Consumer Spending Gets Closer Study

As Business Levels, Economists Eye Trend Adopted by Buyers

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Have money, will spend. That's been the consumer's slogan for so long that many businessmen take it for granted it will never change.

And if the money isn't at hand, buy now and pay later has been the slogan of many consumers at the urging of many industries.

But consumers do change their spending notions now and then.

Sometimes the change is the idea of somebody else. Outside forces pare individual incomes, and hence in a measure lower their credit ratings.

Sometimes it's just a feeling that consumers get—a lack of confidence in the future that makes repaying odd debts seem better than contracting new ones.

And that is why consumer spending is being watched so closely today. This is a period of leveling off in business. All hands are trying to decide if it's a breather before another rise, or the start of a slide from the peak.

The consumer has a leading role in the center of the stage.

Consumers are still spending as far as can be determined from latest statistics.

Retail trade has remained high—with any hesitancy in recent weeks explainable perhaps by bad weather and the lateness of Easter.

On-the-cuff financing has gone its traditional American way — higher. The total of consumer credit has climbed to record highs. The total of personal debt —instalment, charge accounts, mortgages and so on—has never been greater.

Those who wonder how high this could go for the general health of the economy are usually treated as spoil sports.

Consumers who buy on time argue with reason that otherwise they could enjoy fewer of the things that make American living standards the world's highest.

Those who finance instalment buying and those who make the goods that are sold that way point out with reason that this method, in the process of raising living standards, has kept industry expanding and workers on the job.

Finance executives point out that consumers show little interest in the fact that it costs them more in the long run to acquire what they want by consumer loans with their interest charges. They accept the charges as part of the American way of life.

Vast Tonnage of Farm Dirt Is Washing into Lake Erie

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sizable farms are swept into Lake Erie every year by her tributary streams and lost forever to man.

Siltation in vast tonnage chokes river mouths, gums up waterworks and kills off plant and fish life. Sedimentation rather than sewage and industrial waste was found to represent the lake's most difficult pollution problem in a survey conducted by the Ohio Division of Water.

Siltation tests at Independence found the Cuyahoga River to be carrying soil downstream at the rate of 260,463 tons a year. This amounted to 367 tons of soil for every square mile in the watershed, the highest rate of loss recorded along the entire lakefront on an area-drained basis.

The Lake Erie watershed's largest river, the Maumee, carries an annual load of 1,995,798 tons of sediment into the lake at Toledo.

Second largest river, the Sandusky, moves 269,024 tons a year as measured at Fremont.

These are findings of the lake pollution survey published in 1953. Conditions have not improved since '53 and may have worsened, according to C. V. Youngquist Ohio water chief.

Biologists found 350,000 tons of silt in suspension in western Lake Erie in one six-week period. The pollution made 2,940 square kilometers of the lake too turbid to support the usual spring diatom corp., livelihood of fish.

Both fish and human beings were menaced by sewage and industrial waste. The organic industrial waste load was estimated by the U.S. Public Health Service to be equivalent to a population of 900,000. Inorganic wastes showed up at several testing points in the form of deadly poisons.

Of 28 bathing beaches sampled, only 11 were acceptable during every summer month. Most polluted beach section along the entire lake was found in the Rocky River area, with a June-to-October bacteria count of 65,000. Standard for safe bathing is 1,000.

Of 25 tributary streams sampled, 14 registered coliform bacteria counts so hith as to make the water unacceptable for public water supply "even with the highest degree of water treatment known."

Phenol, which cannot get into water except as industrial waste, was found from time to time in every tributary sampled. Phenol can kill fish where more than 10 parts per million are present.

Cyanide, which is toxic and also an industrial pollutant, turned up in the Maumee, Cuyahoga and Black rivers and in the Swan and Tenmile creeks. Hexavalent chromium, also toxic, was found in the Ashtabula, Rocky, Black and Grand rivers and in the Tenmile creek.

One sample of the Black River at Elyria had a cyanide content of eight parts per million. Maximum reading in the Cleveland area was .6 part per million. Cyanide concentrations over .05 part per million are unacceptable in a drinking water supply.

Of Cuyahoga River pollution, the survey found:

"The pollution in this lower section of the river is such that the hulls of cargo vessels must often be repainted. On occasion the oil film on the surface has ignited giving the Cuyahoga the doubtful distinction of appearing in Ripley's 'Believe It or Not' as the 'river that burns.'"

The Grand River was found to be the most chemically polluted stream in the entire watershed.

"It is very convenient to dispose of waste materials by discharging them into the waterways," the report said. "The fallacy of this is we do not necessarily get rid of waste materials in this way; we just pass them on to others. . . .

"A favorable dissolved oxygen content must be maintained, and with gross pollution this is not possibe. Toxic chemicals destroy the essential biological balance and are a menace to health. Concentrations of chemicals and slugs of concentrated chemicals destroy aquatic life."

Pollution presents a peculiar problem in Lake Erie, the shallowest of the Great Lakes, where for several months of the year the lake may lose more water by evaporation than it receives from its tributaries. The result is a "bathtub ring" effect of shoreline pollution above the receding waterline.

Episcopalians Launch Their New Magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — A new church magazine, The Episcopalian, made its debut today.

Launching of the new national monthly was authorized by the 1958 general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

"The last real frontier on earth —the soul of man—will be 'The Episcopalian's' area of major exploration," says a prospectus.

Contents of the 52-page first issue range from an analysis of love by British writer C. S. Lewis, an Anglican, to a critique of American taste by TV producer David Susskind, a Jew.

"We intend to serve as an instrument of vigorous intrachurch conversation," said editor Henry L. McCorkle, 36, Swarthmore, Pa.

"But we won't wear denominational blinders. We're concerned with the whole of Christianity in the contemporary world."

Besides various general articles, and departments on books, religious news and other features, the new magazine has a comic strip, with a theological kicker.

QUICK RYE FENNEL BREAD

Ingredients: 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup stone-ground whole rye flour, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons dark molasses, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon fennel seeds. Method: Turn on oven to slow (325 degrees). Butter a loaf pan (8 by 4 by 3 inches); put the 1 tablespoon butter in the pan in oven until melted and pan is extremely hot. Sift the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt into a medium-sized mixing bowl; stir in rye flour and sugar. Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white; add fennel. Pour into sifted dry ingredients; stir until flour mixture is moistened; stir in hot melted butter from loaf pan. Turn into hot prepared pan and bake in preheated slow oven 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. (top will have crack.) Loosen bread from sides of pan with a spatula; turn out on wire rack; turn right side up; cool. Bread has coarse-grained crumbly texture, so it may be sliced about ¼-inch thick after cooling, or sliced thinner if wrapped tightly in transparent plastic wrapping and stored 24 hours.

To obtain a tingly massage effect from your shower baths, consider installing a special shower head with a rotary, oscillating nozzle.

Bake a loaf of date-nut or banana quick bread to send along, filled with cream cheese, as a "second" sandwich in your youngster's or husband's lunchbox.

QUICK RYE FENNEL BREAD

Ingredients: 1 tablespoo butter or margarine, 1 cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup stone-ground whole rye flour, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons dark molasses, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon fennel seeds. Method: Turn on oven to slow (325 degrees). Butter a loaf pan (8 by 4 by 3 inches); put the 1 tablespoon butter in the pan in oven until melted and pan is extremely hot. Sift the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt into a medium-sized mixing bowl; stir in rye flour and sugar. Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white; add fennel. Pour into sifted dry ingredients; stir until flour mixture is moistened; stir in hot melted butter from loaf pan. Turn into hot prepared pan and bake in preheated slow oven 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. (top will have crack.) Loosen bread from sides of pan with a spatula; turn out on wire rack; turn right side up; cool. Bread has coarse-grained crumbly texture, so it may be sliced about ¼-inch thick after cooling, or sliced thinner if wrapped tightly in transparent plastic wrapping and stored 24 hours.

To obtain a tingly massage effect from your shower baths, consider installing a special shower head with a rotary, oscillating nozzle.

Bake a loaf of date-nut or banana quick bread to send along, filled with cream cheese, as a "second" sandwich in your youngster's or husband's lunchbox.

Westerns are popular in the world of fashion as well as on TV screens.

We're not talking about blue jeans and cowboy hats now. We're talking of the particular kind of smooth, understated clothes that California designers do so well.

One of these designers is an attractive young woman named Dorothy O'Hara, who handles fabrics as a sculptor handles clay. She started her business with a "line" of six dresses made on two sewing machines in a small Los Angeles penthouse. Today she heads a multi-million dollar concern which turns out dresses at the rate of 200 to 400 a day, and distributes them to cities throughout America as well as in Canada, England, South Africa, Australia and throughout Europe.

Dorothy entered the fashion business as a model, and still can wear her own size 12. She studied pattern drafting at night, eventually got a job as designer for the dress firm where she worked as a model and opened her own business after her marriage to Hank Lunney, now in charge of the business end of the firm.

She is known for simple, uncluttered lines in well-bred clothes always flattering to the feminine figure. Says she:

"I like to think my clothes are both timely and timeless."

Gleaners Class Is Feted At Annual Spring Banquet

Favors in keeping with the approaching Easter season and arrangements of spring flowers and pastel candles decorated the tabes at the annual Spring Banquet of the Gleaner's Class of Pontious EUB Church.

The session was held Saturday at the Wardell Party Home, Route 2. A chicken dinner was served.

During the short business session with Mrs. Jacob Glitt in charge, it was voted to give a donation to the Crippled Childrens Fund and also to the Easter goal of the church.

Mrs. Glitt introduced Mr. and Mrs. Forest Croman who showed slides of historical interest in Pickway County, The history was written by Mrs. S. M. Cryder and narrated by Mrs. Croman.

A floral arragnement was presented to Miss Ethel Brobst, class teacher for many years.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Larry Goodman and Mrs. Glitt. Committees in charge were Mrs. Charles Walker and Mrs. Marvene Turner, arrangements; and Mr. Glitt and Guy Stockman, program.

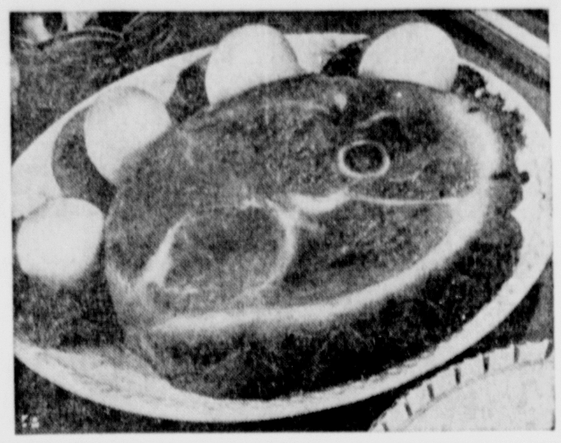
Make-Believe Eggs To Be Family Easter Delight



EASTER EGGS look like the real thing but they are sheer make-believe; horse radish cream molded in empty egg shells to serve with ham.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

Make-believe eggs are a gay trifle to add to an Easter menu featuring ham.

In shape and color these trick eggs look like real shelled hard-cooked eggs. But when you taste them you find they're made of a creamy gelatin mixture delicately flavored with horse-radish.

How does this magic happen? First the yolks and whites are removed from raw eggs through a small hole at one end so as to have empty shells; then the shells are refilled with the creamy gelatin mixture. After the refileld shells are stood up in an egg carton, they're refrigerated to set. Before serving, the shells of the make-believe eggs are cracked and peeled off. Presto! a delightful garnish, served on pineapple slices colored green, for Easter ham.

If your family is small and you do not wish to bake a half or whole ham for an Easter meal, broil a thick center slice of ready-to-eat fully-cooked ham, counting on about 2 pounds for 6 servings. (There will be 6 make-believe eggs.) You can score the fat around the ham slice in diamond shapes and insert a whole clove in the center of each. During broiling, the ham slice may be basted with pineapple syrup mixed with a little brown sugar and mustard.

MAKE-BELIEVE EGGS

Ingredients: 1½ teaspoons gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup boiling water, ½ cup heavy cream, ½ teaspoon sugar, ⅛ to ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon drained bottled horse - radish, 6 prepared egg shells, 6 slices canned pineapple (with enough syrup to cover them), few drops green food coloring.

Method: Sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften; pour boiling water over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Whip cream, gradually beating in sugar and salt, until thick; fold in horse - radish. Fold cream mixture into gelatin. Prop prepared egg shells, hole up, in egg carton; spoon gelatin mixture with demitasse spoon into shels; chill at least 3 hours to set galatin. To unmold eggs, crack shells and peel off as for hard-cooked eggs. Drain pineapple slices from syrup; add green food coloring to syrup and mix thoroughly. Return pineapple slices to syrup; chill while gelatin eggs are setting. To serve: Drain pineapple slices; place a peeled horse-radish egg in the center of each slice; garnish with sprigs of parsley.

To Prepare Egg Shells: At the small end of egg, push a large needle through shell to make a hole; with a small sharp-pointed knife chip away shell to make hole ½ inch in diameter. Insert end of meat baster into the egg-shell hole andsuck yolk and white into baster; run cold water into empty shell, shake out water and drain shell, hole down, in egg carton until dry.

SPRING CHECKUP . . . Slim sheath in black-and-white pin checks, wide collar.

ACCENT ON CURVES . . . Slim draped sheath in beige crepe, by Dorothy O'Hara.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Westerns are popular in the world of fashion as well as on TV screens.

We're not talking about blue jeans and cowboy hats now. We're talking of the particular kind of smooth, understated clothes that California designers do so well.

One of these designers is an attractive young woman named Dorothy O'Hara, who handles fabrics as a sculptor handles clay. She started her business with a "line" of six dresses made on two sewing machines in a small Los Angeles penthouse. Today she heads a multi-million dollar concern which turns out dresses at the rate of 200 to 400 a day, and distributes them to cities throughout America as well as in Canada, England, Scuth Africa, Australia and throughout Europe.

Dorothy entered the fashion business as a model, and still can wear her own size 12. She studied pattern drafting at night, eventually got a job as designer for the dress firm where she worked as a model and opened her own business after her marriage to Hank Lunney, now in charge of the business end of the firm.

She is known for simple, uncluttered lines in well-bred clothes always flattering to the feminine figure. Says she:

"I like to think my clothes are both timely and timeless."

Married Couple Puts Each Other Through College; Each Is Blind

CINCINNATI (AP)—First Jane Dotson put her husband, Avery, through college. Now he's doing the same for her.

It's a lot like many partnerships, except that both have been blind from birth.

Jane Dotson, 33, is in the spotlight right now. She stepped up for initiation into Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Cincinnati Monday.

And Avery, 34, stepped up with her.

"We have a motto," said Jane. "It is up to us, as blind who are in the minority, to adjust to the sighted world who are in the majority."

Bill Hewitt, 22, a psychology major who also won election to Phi Beta Kappa, said:

"Jane's so well accepted here because she helps other students, too." Those helped include Bill Hewitt.

Jane and Avery met in high school at the State School for the Blind at Louisville.

Instead of returning home to Covington, Ky., she got a typing job in Louisville, "so I could see him on dates.

"Then we eloped," she recalled gleefully. "My family had planned a church wedding and all that fuss and we didn't know how to be tactful about it."

The blind couple had a lot of long range goals. Jane lived with her family in Covington while working at a Cincinnati firm to help Avery through Ohio State University.

Now that Avery is an occupational therapist with the Veterans Administration Hospital here they have their own home. Jane is due to graduate in June.

But she wants to return next fall for a master's degree in experimental psychology. Jane aims to teach teachers of the handicapped.

One of her goals is to see blind children integrated into sighted classes at start of school.

Jane said she had to leave home at age six to attend a special school for the blind and said, "this can leave a scar."

She said the blind have to make two big adjustments—being separated from their families, and when school is finished, entering the sighted world.

A classmate, Flo Flemming, said, "You forget about Jane being blind. You think of her as just another student who works hard and gets the grades she deserves."

"Most important of all, she's friendly to everyone," said Neil Kumpf, a junior.

Jane's classes are all in one hall at the university and she goes from room to room unaided.

"I use landmarks, like water fountains, elevators and roaring fluorescent lights," she said.

She gets help from fellow students in preparation of special diagrams. There are no braille textbooks, so she must buy text recordings. A retired teacher has helped by volunteer reading of many textbooks onto records.

At home, housekeeping is no problem, Jane said, "but we have to maintain order all the time."

The Dotsons keep lights on in the house all evening. Jane said, "We don't want to be the only dark house on the street."

And she said they often eat dinner by candlelight, adding "we love atmosphere. We can sense it."

Their recreations include swimming, dancing bridge and television.

Television?

Jane said, "The majority of our friends are sighted. We wouldn't want to blind TV for them."

A.T.&T. IN BRAILLE — Bruce Breslauer, 10, blind from infancy, is the first west coast shareholder to receive a Braille edition of American Telephone & Telegraph's annual report. This is the first time such editions have been issued. Bruce goes over his in Berkeley, Calif.

Beating of Liquor Agent Is Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ivan W. Smith, state liquor enforcement chief, has asked for a full report on the beating of one of his agents who had threatened to cite an alleged after-hours tavern in Toledo.

The agent, Robert Stucker of Cleveland, said he was hit from behind and had his glasses broken as he left the Dry Dock Cafe on Toledo's east side about 1:30 a. m. Sunday. Stucker suffered two black eyes and face cuts.

Henry K. Ray, Toledo agent in charge, said Stucker and Stanley Bounds entered the bar, announced they were liquor agents and that they were going to cite the place for after-hours sales. The attack came as they were leaving, although permit holders at the tavern denied any knowledge of a fight Ray said.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Temperatures dropped below the freezing mark through the state this morning. Youngstown reported one of the coldest readings, 22 degrees. Toledo, Akron and Mansfield had 24, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati 29.

The last of the snow flurries moved away from northeast Ohio during the early morning hours, leaving clear skies and bright sunshine over the state at daybreak.

The weather map shows low pressure areas reaching from western Iow to the Minnesota-Canadian border. The lows, in traveling toward Ohio, will result in southerly winds and warmer weather today and tonight. Then a return to westerly winds on Thursday will cut off any further temperature rise.

The passage of the low over the state late tonight or early Thursday is expected to produce some scattered light showers. However, the daytime weather today and Thursday is forecast to be dry.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECAST

Temperatures expected to average 3 to 5 degrees below normal. Normal high 54 north to 60 south, normal low 35-39. Temperatures will average a little below normal Thursday, Friday and Saturday; warmer Sunday and cooler again Monday. Scattered showers tonight and possibly over the weekend, averaging about .2 inch.

Lausche Deplores Vast Array of Subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP)— Congress has approved so many federal subsidies that nobody now keeps track of them, Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) told the Senate Tuesday. He asked that a 12-member committee be established to check up on the "more than 100 billion dollars of subsidies" of the past and determine whether they are needed. Such a study is needed, Lausche said, to avoid a trend toward "government operation of private business."

19-Year-Old Dad of 5 Is Sent to Reformatory

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Emmitt Love, 19-year-old Akron father of five children, was sentenced to 10-25 years in Mansfield Reformatory yesterday for the armed robbery of a gas station last October. Love got $157 in the robbery.

Common Pleas Judge Frank H. Harvey sentenced Love, who told the judge he was married at 15 and that his wife gave birth to a child each year of their marriage.

● Asthma Cures

Q. Is it possible to revive an accident or drowning victim after the heart has ceased beating?

A. Even though you can not feel the pulse in the victim of an accident, drowning, electrocution or poisoning, it may not mean that death has taken place. Doctors have resuscitated or "brought back to life" many patients in whom the heart beat couldn't be detected. Heart action and breathing rarely cease at the same time. It is only after both breathing and heart beat cease that there are only about three or four minutes left in which successful resuscitation is possible. Even after this point every effort should be made to revive the victim by applying measures to restore breathing and heart action.

Q. Are doctors any closer to a cure for asthma than they were ten years ago?

A. The basic principles of cure are known but real cures are sometimes hard to come by. Asthma is due to inflammation of the breathing tubes, which tend to contract and become covered with a thick blanket of mucus. Medicines now available only reduce the symptoms of asthma; they cure nothing. Cure of asthma depends on finding whatever is causing the irritation and removing it, correcting complications that may have developed, and cooperating with nature in her efforts to heal the irritated tissue of the breathing system. It is only when the cause of the inflammation is removed that healing will occur. For example, the source of trouble may be some type of tree or grass pollen. Avoid the offending substance and the asthma clears up. It isn't always so simple but the same principle applies — first find the cause and then work out a "cure."

Steel Mills Get Warning On Orders

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the time of decision for the steel industry, Iron Age Magazine said today. The publication warned:

"Unless the present rate of orders for steel is reversed by new demands for steel, the industry may have to make a further downward revision of estimates for the year."

The national metalworking weekly said there were factors on the negative and positive sides. On the negative side it listed:

1. Automobiles—"Unless there is a major surge of auto buying a long period of downtime and resulting low ordering of steel are inevitable this summer."

2. Construction and capital spending—"To date the optimistic surveys of capital spending have not been translated into actual steel orders."

3. Other consumer durables — "Many makers of consumer durables have cut back heavily on steel orders."

On the positive side the magazine listed:

1. Cancellations have slowed in recent weeks and some spot ordering has materialized in many steel sales offices.

2. The advent of warm weather is expected to stimulate auto sales and launch many planned expansion programs.

3. Steel warehouses expect that April will see the end of the sales decline. The general tone from service centers if hopeful and talk of June recovery, possibly a relatively strong upsurge, is frequent.

Porter Snipes At DiSalle's Delegate Plans

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Albert S. Porter says Gov. Michael V. DiSalle wants to "trade off" Ohio's delegation to the Democratic national convention "for his own political advantage."

Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer and head of a slate of delegate candidates opposing the governor's slate, charged Tuesday night that Gov. DiSalle wants to use the Ohio delegates "merely as a group of pawns."

Porter made his coments at a news conference, one of several planned around the state on behalf of candidates pledged to Porter.

Like DiSalle's slate, the Porter group is committed to U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy as the party's choice for president. However, the two groups differ over the extent to which they would follow Kennedy's leadership should the Massachusetts senator fail to win the nomination.

Porter said he thought DiSalle was "leaning toward" Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri as a second choice.

The governor has said that should Kennedy fail to win the nomination the Ohio delegation would decide where their votes should go. Porter and Ray T. Miller Sr., Cuyahoga County chairman, have said they would follow Kennedy's advice on where to put their support.

Asked why DiSalle refused to accept some of the delegate candidates proposed by the Cuyahoga County organization, Porter declared:

"Anyone who has had at any time the temerity to oppose Mr. DiSalle for any reason has found himself on the governor's list of undesirable people.

"I ran against him for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1959. He didn't want me on his list of delegates."

Teen-Age Novel Bridges Gap From Youth to Maturity

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of two articles.

By JAMES L. SUMMERS
Written for Central Press

Today's young people earnestly desire to become mature, responsible men and women. They want to live wisely and well within their fare share of a hopeful world. The question, "When and how do I become an adult?" has profound meaning to the average teenager.

Books help youth assess and achieve this goal. From them a teen ager often learns what is expected of him and how in perspective to manage the transition from being a learner and de facto observer of adult society to becoming an active participant. Books help him measure his own growth.

This imminent emergence is at once alluring and alarming, particularly in our own era. Thoughtful parents know that youthful urgency is an amusing part of the common experience in all generations.

The young have always insisted that times have finally undergone a radical change — to the everlasting encouragement of the old and weary who may hope so in secret but often doubt it.

WHILE NOT exactly the milk-and-honey millenium we were led to expect, today times really have changed. Indeed there is the prospect they have undergone marvelous perplexing alterations.

Perhaps this accounts for the modern youth's unique interest in himself and his peers, and among other astonishing phenomena for the appearance of a class of literature known as the "teen-age" or "young adult" novel.

These junior works have become a natural forum of adult controversy. Fortunately, few writers in the teen-age field seek to deter youth from that rare and magical experience of true literary discovery.

Instead they actively plan that their readers will one day find for themselves the subtle, observant humor of Jane Austen, the romance of the Brontes, the adventure and laughing wisdom of Mark Twain, and all of the whole rich fabric in English literature from Defoe to Dickens, Chaucer to Chesterton.

Nor is their competition with adult entertainments likely since juvenile authors are usually outclassed by that bright new generation of psychiatric writers who understand the case-study specifics in many modern novels.

Young people, though, still manifest a traditional and spirited resistance to organized and pre-selected literary studies, a youthful trait recorded in the classics themselves, notably those by Mark Twain, the characteristic seeming universal enough through the generations to be classic in itself.

• • •

IT MAY BE doubted that "Tom Sawyer" or "Jane Eyre" were originally intended to be instructional materials, lest the young reader-by-force focus his rebellious attention upon classical passages the author himself perhaps thought a mite dull. Nor does expert editing seem to make forceful reading more palatable to the young.

No doubt the classic writers preferred to delight and captivate of story-tellers before and after them, perhaps they yearned to beguile the reader's free imagination with art, craftsmanship and love.

Their modern counter-parts are conceivably of the same mind—though obviously less gifted until critics discover otherwise as "Moby Dick" was once discovered, and Jules Verne is now thought a classic. As once they did, today's writers also live in a contemporary world and write of what they know.

The ultimate judgment of a book must rest with those who read it by choice either through chance selection or word-of-mouth recommendation. Thus the real task of parents, teachers and interested citizens rests in the planned, directed availability of realistic, full-textured books for young people—whether new or old.

The best means to this end is the adequate library staffed by well-trained, suitably-paid librarians. For while it has been said that he who puts the right book in the hands of the right child has done a noble thing, it does not necessarily follow that it is noble to herd youngsters into the austere presence of the proper books.

James L. Summers

James L. Summers, who wrote this article on young adult reading for National Library Week, was a high school teacher before he "retired" to devote his time to writing. His stories for middle teen-agers and young adults have appeared in such national magazines as "Seventeen," "Charm" and "Senior Prom," and his popular novels for young people include "Ring Around Her Finger," "Tougher Than You Think" and "The Limit of Love."

Health Department Here Commended

A recent letter from the State Department of Health commended the work of Dr. Frank R. Moore, health commissioner, and his Pickaway County Health Department office for its work in preparing an annual report.

The letter, from E. A. Graber, assistant chief, expressed thanks for the well-prepared report from Pickaway County. Graber also thanked the local office for an attached brochure on Pickaway County's Sesquicentennial.

School Board OKs 180-Day Schedule for 1960-61 Term

Little action was taken in a long session of the Circleville Board of Education last night.

The Board approved a 180-day schedule for the 1960-61 school term, accepted one resignation, OKd the negotiation of contracts for two teachers and increased pay for substitutes for next year.

The 1960-61 schedule calls for school to open on August 30, 1960 and to close on May 31, 1961. Two days vacation are allowed for the Pumpkin Show, October 20, 21; two days at Thanksgiving, November 24, 25;

Two full weeks at Christmas, December 17 to January 3; February 13, for Lincoln's birthday; March 31 and April 3 for Easter.

The Board accepted the resignation at the end of this school year of Margaret Magill, a 6th grade teacher. Superintendent George A. Hartman was authorized to negotiate contracts with Mrs. Galen Mowery and Robert Wellington for next year.

• • •

PAY FOR substitute teachers was boosted from $12.50 a day to $15 a day. The boost is effective in August.

William Cook, secretary - manager of the Pickaway County Fair, conferred with the Board on the possible use of a football field at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. He urged the board to think about shifting football games to the Fairgrounds "at some time in the future".

He said facilities for grid contests will be available when development work is completed at the Fairgrounds in the next year or so. The Board took the matter under advisement.

Tom Cat Goes Airborne Here

The Circleville Fire Department emergency crew had another one of those unusual calls yesterday.

It seems a prowling tom cat prowled too far and became stranded on a birdhouse roof at 255 Lewis Road. Firemen completed the rescue after a few minor skirmishes.

The wandering tom cat was scolded and sent home. Chief Talmer Wise and Fireman Ray Anderson combined forces for the rescue.

In another call yesterday, Cleo Creamer, 629 S. Scioto St. was taken to Berger Hospital following a violent coughing attack.

Cincinnati University Gets $164,000 in Gifts

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati received grants and gifts totaling $164,000 during the past month, it was reported today to the board of trustees by University President Dr. Walter C. Langsam.

Dr. Langsam said that brings the total grants and gifts received by the university since Jan. 1 to almost a million dollars.

Largest of the grants was $42-594 from the United States Army for research in surgery.

House Panel Votes Foreign Aid Bill Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee today formally approved a bill to cut 136½ million dollars from President Eisenhower's $4,175,000,000 foreign aid program.

The 18-5 vote in closed session, with no individual positions announced, confirmed decisions the committee made last week.

The action clears the way for the Appropriations Committee, where there is strong sentiment for deeper cuts, to go to work.

Eighth Grade Test Friday

The annual Pickaway County eighth grade test will be administered at 9 a. m. Friday in four centers.

The test will consist of a battery of four examinations on arithmetic, English, American history and general information which includes Ohio history and science.

The exam is expected to take less than two hours. A teacher, other than an eighth grade instructor, must supervise the test.

The completed tests will be sent to the State Department of Education for scoring. County certificates will be awarded those who rank in the upper 25 per cent.

State certificates will be presented those who rank in the high one per cent.

Gallia Voter Signup Denied

COLUMBUA, Ohio (AP)—Gallia County will not have county-wide voter registration. Secretary of State Ted W. Brown cast the deciding vote on the question today.

The election board split on the question of rescinding previous approval for countywide registration. Brown, an advocate of registration, said he voted against it for Gallia County because funds were lacking. He urged action to start countywide registration as soon as financially possible.

Democratic board members Joseph E. Straight and Oscar Russell voted against rescinding countywide registration. Republicans Noah E. Walters and C. W. Allison voted in the affirmative. Brown voted with the Republicans.

Steel Mills Get Warning On Orders

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the time of decision for the steel industry, Iron Age Magazine said today. The publication warned:

"Unless the present rate of orders for steel is reversed by new demands for steel, the industry may have to make a further downward revision of estimates for the year."

The national metalworking weekly said there were factors on the negative and positive sides. On the negative side it listed:

1. Automobiles—"Unless there is a major surge of auto buying a long period of downtime and resulting low ordering of steel are inevitable this summer."

2. Construction and capital spending—"To date the optimistic surveys of capital spending have not been translated into actual steel orders."

3. Other consumer durables — "Many makers of consumer durables have cut back heavily on steel orders."

On the positive side the magazine listed:

1. Cancellations have slowed in recent weeks and some spot ordering has materialized in many steel sales offices.

2. The advent of warm weather is expected to stimulate auto sales and launch many planned expansion programs.

3. Steel warehouses expect that April will see the end of the sales decline. The general tone from service centers if hopeful and talk of June recovery, possibly a relatively strong upsurge, is frequent.

Porter Snipes At DiSalle's Delegate Plans

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Albert S. Porter says Gov. Michael V. DiSalle wants to "trade off" Ohio's delegation to the Democratic national convention "for his own political advantage."

Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer and head of a slate of delegate candidates opposing the governor's slate, charged Tuesday night that Gov. DiSalle wants to use the Ohio delegates "merely as a group of pawns."

Porter made his coments at a news conference, one of several planned around the state on behalf of candidates pledged to Porter.

Like DiSalle's slate, the Porter group is committed to U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy as the party's choice for president. However, the two groups differ over the extent to which they would follow Kennedy's leadership should the Massachusetts senator fail to win the nomination.

Porter said he thought DiSalle was "leaning toward" Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri as a second choice.

The governor has said that should Kennedy fail to win the nomination the Ohio delegation would decide where their votes should go. Porter and Ray T. Miller Sr., Cuyahoga County chairman, have said they would follow Kennedy's advice on where to put their support.

Asked why DiSalle refused to accept some of the delegate candidates proposed by the Cuyahoga County organization, Porter declared:

"Anyone who has had at any time the temerity to oppose Mr. DiSalle for any reason has found himself on the governor's list of undesirable people.

"I ran against him for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1959. He didn't want me on his list of delegates."

Teen-Age Novel Bridges Gap From Youth to Maturity

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of two articles.

By JAMES L. SUMMERS
Written for Central Press

Today's young people earnestly desire to become mature, responsible men and women. They want to live wisely and well within their fare share of a hopeful world. The question, "When and how do I become an adult?" has profound meaning to the average teenager.

Books help youth assess and achieve this goal. From them a teen ager often learns what is expected of him and how in perspective to manage the transition from being a learner and de facto observer of adult society to becoming an active participant. Books help him measure his own growth.

This imminent emergence is at once alluring and alarming, particularly in our own era. Thoughtful parents know that youthful urgency is an amusing part of the common experience in all generations.

The young have always insisted that times have finally undergone a radical change — to the everlasting encouragement of the old and weary who may hope so in secret but often doubt it.

WHILE NOT exactly the milk-and-honey millenium we were led to expect, today times really have changed. Indeed there is the prospect they have undergone marvelous perplexing alterations.

Perhaps this accounts for the modern youth's unique interest in himself and his peers, and among other astonishing phenomena for the appearance of a class of literature known as the "teen-age" or "young adult" novel.

These junior works have become a natural forum of adult controversy. Fortunately, few writers in the teen-age field seek to deter youth from that rare and magical

James L. Summers

James L. Summers, who wrote this article on young adult reading for National Library Week, was a high school teacher before he "retired" to devote his time to writing. His stories for middle teen-agers and young adults have appeared in such national magazines as "Seventeen," "Charm" and "Senior Prom," and his popular novels for young people include "Ring Around Her Finger," "Tougher Than You Think" and "The Limit of Love."

experience of true literary discovery.

Instead they actively plan that their readers will one day find for themselves the subtle, observant humor of Jane Austen, the romance of the Brontes, the adventure and laughing wisdom of Mark Twain, and all of the whole rich fabric in English literature from Defoe to Dickens, Chaucer to Chesterton.

Nor is their competition with adult entertainments likely since juvenile authors are usually outclassed by that bright new generation of psychiatric writers who understand the case-study specifics in many modern novels.

Young people, though, still manifest a traditional and spirited resistance to organized and pre-selected literary studies, a youthful trait recorded in the classics themselves, notably those by Mark Twain, the characteristic seeming universal enough through the generations to be classic in itself.

• • •

IT MAY BE doubted that "Tom Sawyer" or "Jane Eyre" were originally intended to be instructional materials, lest the young reader-by-force focus his rebellious attention upon classical passages the author himself perhaps thought a mite dull. Nor does expert editing seem to make forceful reading more palatable to the young.

No doubt the classic writers preferred to delight and captivate of story-tellers before and after them, perhaps they yearned to beguile the reader's free imagination with art, craftsmanship and love.

Their modern counter-parts are conceivably of the same mind—though obviously less gifted until critics discover otherwise as "Moby Dick" was once discovered, and Jules Verne is now thought a classic. As once they did, today's writers also live in a contemporary world and write of what they know.

The ultimate judgment of a book must rest with those who read it by choice either through chance selection or word-of-mouth recommendation. Thus the real task of parents, teachers and interested citizens rests in the planned, directed availability of realistic, full-textured books for young people—whether new or old.

The best means to this end is the adequate library staffed by well-trained, suitably-paid librarians. For while it has been said that he who puts the right book in the hands of the right child has done a noble thing, it does not necessarily follow that it is noble to herd youngsters into the austere presence of the proper books.

Health Department Here Commended

A recent letter from the State Department of Health commended the work of Dr. Frank R. Moore, health commissioner, and his Pickaway County Health Department office for its work in preparing an annual report.

The letter, from E. A. Graber, assistant chief, expressed thanks for the well-prepared report from Pickaway County. Graber also thanked the local office for an attached brochure on Pickaway County's Sesquicentennial.

School Board OKs 180-Day Schedule for 1960-61 Term

Little action was taken in a long session of the Circleville Board of Education last night.

The Board approved a 180-day schedule for the 1960-61 school term, accepted one resignation, OKd the negotiation of contracts for two teachers and increased pay for substitutes for next year.

The 1960-61 schedule calls for school to open on August 30, 1960 and to close on May 31, 1961. Two days vacation are allowed for the Pumpkin Show, October 20, 21; two days at Thanksgiving, November 24, 25;

Two full weeks at Christmas, December 17 to January 3; February 13, for Lincoln's birthday; March 31 and April 3 for Easter.

The Board accepted the resignation at the end of this school year of Margaret Magill, a 6th grade teacher. Superintendent George A. Hartman was authorized to negotiate contracts with Mrs. Galen Mowery and Robert Wellington for next year.

• • •

PAY FOR substitute teachers was boosted from $12.50 a day to $15 a day. The boost is effective in August.

William Cook, secretary - manager of the Pickaway County Fair, conferred with the Board on the possible use of a football field at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. He urged the board to think about shifting football games to the Fairgrounds "at some time in the future".

He said facilities for grid contests will be available when development work is completed at the Fairgrounds in the next year or so. The Board took the matter under advisement.

Tom Cat Goes Airborne Here

The Circleville Fire Department emergency crew had another one of those unusual calls yesterday.

It seems a prowling tom cat prowled too far and became stranded on a birdhouse roof at 255 Lewis Road. Firemen completed the rescue after a few minor skirmishes.

Carbonneau Ready To Help Gardeners

Extension Specialist Serves Commercial Nurserymen, Amateurs

Ohio amateur gardeners are lucky. They have a trained extension specialist to consult whenever a garden problem in their own backyards becomes un-solvable. He is on tap for garden club programs as speaker. (If you get your bid in early enough.)

The extension specialist is Marvin Carbonneau appointed last July to take over at Ohio state University in the capacity of the well-known Victor Ries.

MARVIN CARBONNEAU

Carbonneau's duties include work with commercial nurserymen as well as amateurs in the garden field and garden club groups.

He is on the staff of the Department of Horticulture and Forestry of Ohio State University. His correct title is, Extension Specialist, Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture.

* * *

IN A LETTER from Corbonneau dated October 14 (Just before the Herald Garden page went into laibernation) Carbonneau wrote that one of his duties inherited from Victor Ries was the continuance of "Garden Notes" a publication went from the extension office at Ohio State University to Ohio's amateur gardners.

Carbonneau emphasized that "Garden Notes" would be sent to any interested gardener and not just garden club members.

"Garden Notes" was an excellent news letter type publication with expert advice on gardening in general.

Carbonneau is a native of Chicago. He was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1955 with a degree of Bachelor of Science. He was awarded his Master of Science degree in 1956 and is now working towards his Doctor of Philosophy degree at Ohio State.

Many garden club members have already become acquainted with Carbonneau. But get your bid in early if you want Carbonneau to be on your program. Remember he serves the whole State of Ohio.

Polio Vaccine Supply High, Takers Are Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Polio vaccine supplies are at a high of 26,400,000 doses although more than 90 million Americans still need to be vaccinated, the Public Health Service said today.

"Every year for the past four years there has been a surplus of vaccine in the spring and winter followed by a shortage in the summer, when the occurrence of polio cases reminds people they should get vaccinated," Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said in a statement.

Garden Club of Ohio Plans School on Landscape Design

There is a chance that the Garden Club of Ohio Inc. will conduct a Landscape Design Study Course in the Columbus area.

If 100 students indicate their interest in such a course it could become a reality.

Several years ago Garden Club of Ohio Inc. conducted a Flower Show school for its members. A three-day course was held each spring and again each fall until five courses had been conducted.

These courses were all open to the public.

* * *

HOWEVER only members of Garden Club of Ohio Inc. were eligcare to take the examinations and become national judges.

Many gardeners availed themselves of the opportunity to take the course and became very expert in arranging although they did not care to take the examinations anc become judges.

They discovered that studying arranging under the tutelege of the top-notch instructors in the country was an exciting and rewarding opportunity.

The same will be true of the Landscape Design School. It will be open to the public. Examinations will be limited to members of Garden Club of Ohio Inc.

According to Mrs. Richard E. Barnes, Landscape School chairman, "the principle objective of the courses is to train critics of landscape design and outdoor beauty by teaching club members what should be done by individuals, city, state and federal governmental bodies or erdicate the 'trial of ugliness' that seems to follow man wherever he has gone in the USA".

Not all the students taking the course will be interested in becoming landscape critics. Examinations are optional. But they will enjoy working under high ranking landscape instructors.

In this do-it-yourself age this is an exciting chance to learn a new art. We hope young homeowners will indicate their interest by writing to the landscape chairman, Mrs. Barnes, at 23700 Stanford Road, Cleveland 22.

The approximate fee will be $15 a course payable at registration.

Garden Gossip

Mrs. Kelson Bower, Route 1, Circleville, has already started her tuberous begonias. The tubers were sprouting and she felt she'd better not waste any more time.

Mrs. Neil Morris, Route 1, Circlevile, had also started her begonias—same reason.

Floyd Bartley has recently purchased a new engine for his Model A Ford. He bought it from Sears and had to send in his title at the time of his purchase. Then when he went to buy his license he remembered Sears still had the title.

Bartley is the county's top-notch naturalist and that Ford of his has seen more of Ohio than any car there is. We'd like to make a bet on this.

Cold weather can't fool the birds, the bulbs or the farmyard hens. According to Miss Doris Allen, Route 1, Kingston, her hen's know its spring. She's never had better egg production in March.

MRS. EUGENE Gildersleeve, Route 4, Circleville, says the same thing about her hens.

Missie Purcell has her eye on on the Mast flock of geese. The Masts have promised her that when plucking time comes around she may come out to the farm and help.

According to Mrs. Mast at a certain time of year the feathers on the breast of a goose are sort of loose and the goose likes to have humans pluck them.

Goose feathers are still high on the list for pillow stuffing despite allergies.

"Look what a beautiful garden book arrived for me. It's free", I announced to my husband.

"What did you have to buy to get it" he asked suspiciously.

"Nothing but the other 25 volumes", I admitted.

Mrs. Robert Bower, Route 1, Kingston, says the rabbits are particularly destructive now. They are actually eating her pyrocantha.

Mrs. Turney Pontius says her spaghetti plant is not going to live through the winter. The spaghetti plant is almost three feet high. It's a curious plant. It appears to have no leaves just thick, green stems. Corilla has displayed it at the Pumpkin Show where it attracted considerable attention.

SHE SAYS it's a very common plant in Florida.

On a flight to Miami, Fla., this winter the plane must have looked like a garden club meeting. Three garden club friends discovered each other aboard. They were Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, Northridge Road, Mrs. Frank Cooper, Piketon, and Mrs. Oscar Root, Pataskala.

Mrs. Floyd Younkin, Columbus, sent 100 orchid corsages home to friends when she was in Hawaii recently. She also shipped home some Hawaiian Pineapple which arrived in perfect condition. She is the daughter of Mrs. Turney Pontius.

Daisy Huskey believes it's a good idea to plant sweetpeas in the fall. Cornflowers, too. Her's set seed last summer and self-planted. She had tiny cornflower rosettes coming up under the snow.

Wilbur Mast, Route 3, Circleville, says the tulips in Holland are a sight indeed. While he was in the armed forces in Germany he kept asking the fellows who took weekends in Holland if the Tulips were blooming. Finally the answer was yes. So he took out for Holland and saw the tulips, whole fields of them, at their peak.

Miss Alma Ehret Specializes In Potting Bedding Plants

March 21st may have been a cold day. But you can't fool a greenhouse operator about Spring.

Miss Alma Ehret, owner of the Walnut Street Greenhouse was out of hibernation and had started the ball rolling for her seasonal business which lasts from April to July.

She was potting bedding plants which are the specialty of the greenhouse. Miss Ehret says they sell thousands of plants each spring.

Alma has been working in the greenhouse 12 years now. She had no special greenhouse training when she first started. The greenhouse just happened to come along with the property which Mrs. Eleanor Dawson purchased on Walnut Street. Mrs. Dawson thought it would be a nice hobby for her father, Waldo Stedman.

But the greenhouses were too big for a hobby. Before Stedman realized what was happening he was in business and Alma was his assistant. When Stedman became ill, even before his death, Alma had taken over greenhouse operations.

She learned by reading greenhouse literature, books, asking questions and putting to use the tips given her by commercial growers.

* * *

MISS EHRET says most of her plants are grown by commercial growers. Plants come from growers in Springfield, Columbus and Lancaster.

Although the greenhouse does not function in a business way in winter; it is kept at a temperature of 60 degrees. This is a good temperature for most of the plants that winter over. Spending a comfortable season in the greenhouse are numerous foliage plants, a large cactus collection, other succulents, vines and ferns.

Alma roots geranium cuttings during the winter for spring trade. It takes about three weeks for a cutting to root. One unusual geranium to be found in the greenhouse is a miniature with small leaves and small red flowers.

In the fall Alma pots up about 1,000 spring bulbs for forcing. These are kept outdoors under a covering of sand and sawdust until time for Easter trade.

This winter was a tough one on the bulbs. When Alma uncovered them recently she discovered the covering frozen hard as stone. The bulbs had hearkened to the call of the spring light and tried to force their way through the frozen covering. But the result was that they had grown whopper-jawed, some of them curled to the side instead of straight up. Alma did not know if they would straighten later or not.

"It's never happened before", she said.

The greenhouse owner said that work at the greenhouse is not so much actually growing as selling. But this is right up Alma's alley. Before she came to Circleville she was a buyer in the picture and gift department at Lazarus.

From the first of April on, things are buzzing at the greenhouse... There's Easter, Mother's Day and Decoration Day. Vegetable plants are sold too along with ornamentals. Then things begin to taper off.

Yes, Miss Ehret has to have help during the rush season. A neighbor across the street comes over at a minute's notice to wait on customers. And Alma always has a boy or two as assistants. "Some boys are just naturally interested in flowers and greenhouses", she says.

Even though March may have been a cold month Alma's ready for business April 1. And nobody's looking forward to the gardening season with more zest than she.

Miss Alma Ehret

Not Too Early For Some Seed

Gardening should be a leisurely trade. As a matter of fact it frequently is hectic. A good gardener must look ahead and plan ahead.

For instance, have you ordered your cornflower, annual poppy larkspur and sweetpea seeds?

Well then get rolling! These annuals must be planted early. In fact, it's early or nothing with them. If you're one of those punctual gardeners you planted all these seeds last fall.

Or you broadcast them on the snow which covered your flower bed!

* * *

BUT IF YOU are a garden laggard go buy seeds immediately and the very first day you can, stir up the soil with your rake and toss the seeds on top of the ground.

The alternate freezing and thawing will help cover them and they will germinate after the first spring rain.

Original name of Tacoma, Wash., was Commencement City.

'Jiffy-Pot' Gimmick Gets Gardeners' OK

Pickaway County gardeners are always on the alert for shortcuts in gardening. Small wonder that "Jiffy-Pots" have been in use in this area for several years now. Using "Jiffy-Pots" is a new way to take the gambling out of gardening.

Perhaps you have never thought of gardening in terms of gambling, but that's just what you are doing. You're gambling on the weather . . . germination of seed . . . insect depredation . and a host of other hazards.

Even when you set out what appear to be healthy transplants, you're gambling on the plant's ability to overcome root shock and setback. Did you ever figure the percentages on wins and losses? There's a way to be as close to a 100 per cent winner as you will ever get . . . and that's with "Jiffy-Pots".

Frankly, "Jiffy-Pots" are revolutionary . . . commercial growers of flowers and vegetables are well aware of what "Jiffy-Pots" can do and are using them in large and increasing numbers.

Jiffys resemble a flower pot and are made of peat, walls are porus and that makes it possible for the plant roots to penetrate this porous construction . . no need to remove the plant from the pot . . . you merely plant "pot and all", this important feature eliminates root shock . . . or setback . . . which always occurs with bare root transplants.

* * *

IF YOU PREFER to start your own seedlings, your garden supply dealer can provide Jiffs in various sizes and shapes at a very nominal cost.

CLIMBING STRAWBERRY — This vine is taking America by storm. A strawberry that will climb six feet if trained on a trellis, it is both ornamental and berry producing. Mrs. John Mast, who has a strawberry patch that draws customers all during the season, purchased a climbing strawberry at the Flower and Garden Show. Mrs. Noble Barr reported last year that she had a trellis climbing strawberry.

Rose Guide Is Now Ready

The American Rose Society is announcing that its 1960 Guide for Buying Roses is now available. By writing to the society Headquarters at Columbus, 14, a free copy may be obtained by anyone interested.

The guide is helpful to amateurs because it lists and evaluates 455 varieties of roses. A perfect rose is given a score of 10. A rose that scores under five is considered a questionable buy.

Other information included about each rose listed is its height, color and fragrance rating.

Carbonneau Ready To Help Gardeners

Extension Specialist Serves Commercial Nurserymen, Amateurs

Ohio amateur gardeners are lucky. They have a trained extension specialist to consult whenever a garden problem in their own backyards becomes unsolvable. He is on tap for garden club programs as speaker. (If you get your bid in early enough.)

The extension specialist is Marvin Carbonneau appointed last July to take over at Ohio state University in the capacity of the well-known Victor Ries.

MARVIN CARBONNEAU

Carbonneau's duties include work with commercial nurserymen as well as amateurs in the garden field and garden club groups.

He is on the staff of the Department of Horticulture and Forestry of Ohio State University. His correct title is, Extension Specialist, Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture.

* * *

IN A LETTER from Corbonneau dated October 14 (Just before the Herald Garden page went into laibernation) Carbonneau wrote that one of his duties inherited from Victor Ries was the continuance of "Garden Notes" a publication went from the extension office at Ohio State University to Ohio's amateur gardners.

Carbonneau emphasized that "Garden Notes" would be sent to any interested gardener and not just garden club members.

Carbonneau is a native of Chicago. He was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1955 with a degree of Bachelor of Science. He was awarded his Master of Science degree in 1956 and is now working towards his Doctor of Philosophy degree at Ohio State.

Many garden club members have already become acquainted with Carbonneau. But get your bid in early if you want Carbonneau to be on your program. Remember he serves the whole State of Ohio.

Polio Vaccine Supply High, Takers Are Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Polio vaccine supplies are at a high of 26,400,000 doses although more than 90 million Americans still need to be vaccinated, the Public Health Service said today.

"Every year for the past four years there has been a surplus of vaccine in the spring and winter followed by a shortage in the summer, when the occurrence of polio cases reminds people they should get vaccinated," Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said in a statement.

Garden Club of Ohio Plans School on Landscape Design

There is a chance that the Garden Club of Ohio Inc. will conduct a Landscape Design Study Course in the Columbus area.

If 100 students indicate their interest in such a course it could become a reality.

Several years ago Garden Club of Ohio Inc. conducted a Flower Show school for its members. A three-day course was held each spring and again each fall until five courses had been conducted.

These courses were all open to the public.

* * *

HOWEVER only members of Garden Club of Ohio Inc. were eligcare to take the examinations and become national judges.

Many gardeners availed themselves of the opportunity to take the course and became very expert in arranging although they did not care to take the examinations anc become judges.

They discovered that studying arranging under the tutelege of the top-notch instructors in the country was an exciting and rewarding opportunity.

The same will be true of the Landscape Design School. It will be open to the public. Examinations will be limited to members of Garden Club of Ohio Inc.

According to Mrs. Richard E. Barnes, Landscape School chairman, "the principle objective of the courses is to train critics of landscape design and outdoor beauty by teaching club members what should be done by individuals, city, state and federal governmental bodies or erdicate the 'trial of ugliness' that seems to follow man wherever he has gone in the USA".

Not all the students taking the course will be interested in becoming landscape critics. Examinations are optional. But they will enjoy working under high ranking landscape instructors.

In this do-it-yourself age this is an exciting chance to learn a new art. We hope young homeowners will indicate their interest by writing to the landscape chairman, Mrs. Barnes, at 23700 Stanford Road, Cleveland 22.

The approximate fee will be $15 a course payable at registration.

Garden Gossip

Mrs. Kelson Bower, Route 1, Circleville, has already started her tuberous begonias. The tubers were sprouting and she felt she'd better not waste any more time.

Mrs. Neil Morris, Route 1, Circleville, had also started her begonias—same reason.

Floyd Bartley has recently purchased a new engine for his Model A Ford. He bought it from Sears and had to send in his title at the time of his purchase. Then when he went to buy his license he remembered Sears still had the title.

Bartley is the county's top-notch naturalist and that Ford of his has seen more of Ohio than any car there is. We'd like to make a bet on this.

Cold weather can't fool the birds, the bulbs or the farmyard hens. According to Miss Doris Allen, Route 1, Kingston, her hen's know its spring. She's never had better egg production in March.

MRS. EUGENE Gildersleeve, Route 4, Circleville, says the same thing about her hens.

Missie Purcell has her eye on on the Mast flock of geese. The Masts have promised her that when plucking time comes around she may come out to the farm and help.

According to Mrs. Mast at a certain time of year the feathers on the breast of a goose are sort of loose and the goose likes to have humans pluck them.

Goose feathers are still high on the list for pillow stuffing despite allergies.

"Look what a beautiful garden book arrived for me. It's free", I announced to my husband.

"What did you have to buy to get it" he asked suspiciously.

"Nothing but the other 25 volumes", I admitted.

Mrs. Robert Bower, Route 1, Kingston, says the rabbits are particularly destructive now. They are actually eating her pyracantha.

Mrs. Turney Pontius says her spaghetti plant is not going to live through the winter. The spaghetti plant is almost three feet high. It's a curious plant. It appears to have no leaves just thick, green stems. Corilla has displayed it at the Pumpkin Show where it attracted considerable attention.

SHE SAYS it's a very common plant in Florida.

On a flight to Miami, Fla., this winter the plane must have looked like a garden club meeting. Three garden club friends discovered each other aboard. They were Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, Northridge Road, Mrs. Frank Cooper, Piketon, and Mrs. Oscar Root, Pataskala.

Mrs. Floyd Younkin, Columbus, sent 100 orchid corsages home to friends when she was in Hawaii recently. She also shipped home some Hawaiian Pineapple which arrived in perfect condition. She is the daughter of Mrs. Turney Pontius.

Daisy Huskey believes it's a good idea to plant sweetpeas in the fall. Cornflowers, too. Her's set seed last summer and self-planted. She had tiny cornflower rosettes coming up under the snow.

Wilbur Mast, Route 3, Circleville, says the tulips in Holland are a sight indeed. While he was in the armed forces in Germany he kept asking the fellows who took weekends in Holland if the Tulips were blooming. Finally the answer was yes. So he took out for Holland and saw the tulips, whole fields of them, at their peak.

Miss Alma Ehret Specializes In Potting Bedding Plants

March 21st may have been a cold day. But you can't fool a greenhouse operator about Spring.

Miss Alma Ehret, owner of the Walnut Street Greenhouse was out of hibernation and had started the ball rolling for her seasonal business which lasts from April to July.

She was potting bedding plants which are the specialty of the greenhouse. Miss Ehret says they sell thousands of plants each spring.

Alma has been working in the greenhouse 12 years now. She had no special greenhouse training when she first started. The greenhouse just happened to come along with the property which Mrs. Eleanor Dawson purchased on Walnut Street. Mrs. Dawson thought it would be a nice hobby for her father, Waldo Stedman.

But the greenhouses were too big for a hobby. Before Stedman realized what was happening he was in business and Alma was his assistant. When Stedman became ill, even before his death, Alma had taken over greenhouse operations.

She learned by reading greenhouse literature, books, asking questions and putting to use the tips given her by commercial growers.

* * *

MISS EHRET says most of her plants are grown by commercial growers. Plants come from growers in Springfield, Columbus and Lancaster.

Although the greenhouse does not function in a business way in winter; it is kept at a temperature of 60 degrees. This is a good temperature for most of the plants that winter over. Spending a comfortable season in the greenhouse are numerous foliage plants, a large cactus collection, other succulents, vines and ferns.

Alma roots geranium cuttings during the winter for spring trade. It takes about three weeks for a cutting to root. One unusual geranium to be found in the greenhouse is a miniature with small leaves and small red flowers.

In the fall Alma pots up about 1,000 spring bulbs for forcing. These are kept outdoors under a covering of sand and sawdust until time for Easter trade.

This winter was a tough one on the bulbs. When Alma uncovered them recently she discovered the covering frozen hard as stone. The bulbs had hearkened to the call of the spring light and tried to force their way through the frozen covering. But the result was that they had grown whopper-jawed, some of them curled to the side instead of straight up. Alma did not know if they would straighten later or not.

"It's never happened before", she said.

The greenhouse owner said that work at the greenhouse is not so much actually growing as selling. But this is right up Alma's alley. Before she came to Circleville she was a buyer in the picture and gift department at Lazarus.

From the first of April on, things are buzzing at the greenhouse... There's Easter, Mother's Day and Decoration Day. Vegetable plants are sold too along with ornamentals. Then things begin to taper off.

Yes, Miss Ehret has to have help during the rush season. A neighbor across the street comes over at a minute's notice to wait on customers. And Alma always has a boy or two as assistants. "Some boys are just naturally interested in flowers and greenhouses", she says.

Even though March may have been a cold month Alma's ready for business April 1. And nobody's looking forward to the gardening season with more zest than she.

Miss Alma Ehret

Not Too Early For Some Seed

Gardening should be a leisurely trade. As a matter of fact it frequently is hectic. A good gardener must look ahead and plan ahead.

For instance, have you ordered your cornflower, annual poppy larkspur and sweetpea seeds?

Well then get rolling! These annuals must be planted early. In fact, it's early or nothing with them. If you're one of those punctual gardeners you planted all these seeds last fall.

Or you broadcast them on the snow which covered your flower bed!

* * *

BUT IF YOU are a garden laggard go buy seeds immediately and the very first day you can, stir up the soil with your rake and toss the seeds on top of the ground.

The alternate freezing and thawing will help cover them and they will germinate after the first spring rain.

Original name of Tacoma, Wash., was Commencement City.

'Jiffy-Pot' Gimmick Gets Gardeners' OK

Pickaway County gardeners are always on the alert for shortcuts in gardening. Small wonder that "Jiffy-Pots" have been in use in this area for several years now. Using "Jiffy-Pots" is a new way to take the gambling out of gardening.

Perhaps you have never thought of gardening in terms of gambling, but that's just what you are doing. You're gambling on the weather . . . germination of seed . . . insect depredation . and a host of other hazards.

Even when you set out what appear to be healthy transplants, you're gambling on the plant's ability to overcome root shock and setback. Did you ever figure the percentages on wins and losses? There's a way to be as close to a 100 per cent winner as you will ever get . . . and that's with "Jiffy-Pots".

Frankly, "Jiffy-Pots" are revolutionary . . . commercial growers of flowers and vegetables are well aware of what "Jiffy-Pots" can do and are using them in large and increasing numbers.

Jiffys resemble a flower pot and are made of peat, walls are porus and that makes it possible for the plant roots to penetrate this porous construction . . no need to remove the plant from the pot . . . you merely plant "pot and all", this important feature eliminates root shock . . . or setback . . . which always occurs with bare root transplants.

* * *

IF YOU PREFER to start your own seedlings, your garden supply dealer can provide Jiffs in various sizes and shapes at a very nominal cost.

By starting your plants in "Jiffy-Pots", you can control weather and insect damage and set your plants out when the weather is favorable.

Is Anyone Out There?

Do Other Worlds Know About Us?

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

GREEN BANK, W.Va. (AP)—On behalf of Planet Earth, U.S. astronomers are placing the first bets in a great guessing game of the universe.

Just how would intelligent life on other planets go about trying to contact us? Can we pick up and decode their signals?

The first attempt to hear from anybody out there starts this week, with a radio telescope ear cocked at tw ostarts 11 light years away, though it's not known whether they have planets, or life on any planets.

Perhaps nobody knows about us, or is trying to reach us, says Dr. Frank D. Drake, directing the listening quest at the National Radio Astronomy Observatory.

But we might pick up signals they were beaming to their own space ships or satellites—and thus discover there are intelligent planets somewhere, even if we couldn't tell exactly where. Such radio signals can travel tremendous distances.

Another guess is that someone is trying to reach us.

Drs. Philip Morrison and Guiseppe Cocconi of Cornell University speculate that intelligent civilizations long ago arose around other stars in the Milky Way, and some of these already are in touch with each other and exchanging valuable information.

Members of this galactic club might be beaming signals steadily at us and many other stars that they think might have planets.

More likely, Dr. Drake thinks, other planets may be trying one distant star after another, beaming out a signal at each one maybe only once every year or few years.

Or maybe they improve their bets by beaming just toward areas from which—granted super-receivers — they overheard some of our early and ordinary radio conversations back on earth in the 1930s. Some of those signals might have zipped out into sace.

Overhearing, they'd know that we had developed radio, and would have advanced in radio technique in the years it took for those signals from earth to have reached them.

What frequency would they use to beam a "hello, there" to us?

They could well use a frequency which earthling scientists recently learned is a very important source of radio noise or signals in the universe. This is a frequency generated by hydrogen atoms when they collide or become excited from gas collisions out in space.

This, at least, is a bet for us to go on, Drake adds, and the radio ear is being tuned to frequencies in this range. The new equipment here can be tuned to listen for frequencies in this range, while being deaf to other radio sources from space.

The search is for signals that would come in pulses or some code, and be clearly distinguishable from all other events in the universe.

How would they say hello? Probably just by stating some mathematical or physical fact which would be true any place in the universe, and has been learned by now by us.

Suppose it were the atomic weight of the uranium atom. Their way of writing or expressing numbers could well be different. But the signal could be recognized as something coming from intelligent minds. And earth has many skilled cryptographers who can break codes.

We probably would simply beam back the very same signal—just to say we got the message, come back again — thus starting communications.

In time, Drake speculates, we might exchange TV signals to create pictures of objects, and the names for them, or receivers on the other planet. This would establish mutual language much as a child learns to talk.

We may well have to await far better and more powerful equipment to establish contact with any other planet. But such equipment is coming.

This search, Drake believes, "will never be over until it is successful."

The SOS signal sent out by ships in danger has no meaning in actual words. It is a danger signal to transmit easily and quickly.

Rise in Ohio River Is Reported Stopped

CINCINNATI (AP)—The swollen Ohio River, which failed to reach flood stages, nudged to a crest of 45.5 feet here Tuesday night and the U. S. Weather Bureau said the rise had stopped "for all practical purposes." Flood stage here is 52 feet. The bureau said the river might go up one-tenth of a foot or so Thursday but no more and would fall very slowly.

7th Graders' Elopement Sidetracked

But, even with two pillows to raise his eyes above the dashboard, the boy couldn't stay on the road—the wrong one at that—as the two elopers drove toward a Florida wedding.

The car, owned by the girl's older brother, skidded into a ditch west of Spencer, 55 miles southwest of Indianapolis.

Even then, the elopement of the Indianapolis seventh grade pupils might not have been discovered if the boy hadn't almost run over a motorist who pulled the car out of the ditch.

Sheriff Charles F. Douglas said the elopers' car slid back into the ditch a few feet beyond, and the fat was in the fire.

The 13-year-old boy said he'd never driven a car before but they set out for Florida, where his father lives, to be married.

The 12-year-old girl had stocked the car with her clothing, a sack of popcorn, some oranges and the cookbook and the parakeet.

The sheriff held the young couple until relatives arrived from Indianapolis Monday to take them home.

NEW YORK (AP)—More businesses failed last week than during any week of the last two years, Dun & Bradstreet Inc., reported today.

A total of 356 failed, 2 below the number recorded for the week of March 6, 1958 which had the highest toll since 1939.

The business reporting agency said all industry and trade groups except manufacturing reported more casualties than the previous week. The retailing toll rose the most, to 172 from 123. Manufacturing failures fell from 63 to 57.

Failures for the year to date, Dun & Bradstreet added, are running slightly behind 1959 at an average of 296 a week compared with 298.

One '59 Starter In Phillies Lineup

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies opening day lineup announced by Manager Eddie Sawyer includes one 1959 regular.

In announcing his starters for next Tuesday's National League opener at Cincinnati, Sawyer said Tuesday he is pinning his hopes and probably risking his job on young players.

The only 1959 regular who will be in the lineup is first baseman Ed Bouchee, who led the Phillies in hitting last year with a .285 average.

Sawyer said Bobby Del Greco, whom he called the standout of the camp, will play regularly in center field while the right and left field positions will be platooned. Del Greco, up from Buffalo of the International League, has failed in four previous major league trials.

The right field duties will be shared by Kenny Walters, 26, a right-handed hitter up from Fort Worth, and left-hander Tony Curry, the Eastern League's most valuable player last year.

Veteran Al Dark, picked up in a trade, will be at third. Joe Koppe, who finished last season at short, will remain there.

Rookie Pancho Herrera, the 25-year-old Buffalo sensation who led the International League in virtually all departments and was voted the league's most valuable player, will be at second, replacing the weak-hitting Sparky Anderson.

Jim Coker, a 24-year-old rookie catcher who hit .287 with Buffalo last year, will do the catching.

Circle D Unit Pads Margin

Hoover's Music, in second place, lost two of three games to Guernsey Dairy. Ramey Plasters remained in third, moving up one game on Hoover's.

Top Hat Restaurant tied Jerry's Bar for fourth place by taking two of three games.

Junior Fowler had high individual series and single game scores with 582 and 220 scores respectively. Top Hat rolled high team single game with a 936 and Ramey Plasters had high team series with 2,730 pins.

OTHER keglers above the 200 mark were B. Betts, 216; D. Alkire, 215; L. Ferguson, 210 and J. Lawrence, 207. In the 500 bracket were D. Alkire, 576; B. Betts, 516; J. Carter, 506; G. Ramey, 503; L. Ferguson, 502 and G. Weller, 501.

Canadiens Favored For Stanley Cup

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens today were rated a 16-5 favorite to win their fifth straight Stanley Cup. They open the best-of-seven National Hockey League final playoff series with the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Forum Thursday night.

The series will be a replay of last year when Montreal won in five games for a record-shattering fourth straight cup.

During the regular season, the two clubs met 14 times, with the Canadiens winning 10 and tieing one. Montreal outscored the Leafs 51-28.

The teams will play the second game of the final here Saturday night. The third and fourth games will be in Toronto.

NEW BOSS WITH BIG PROBLEM — Looking mighty serious—and with reason—is the Kansas City Athletic's new manager, Bob Elliott, as he directs his club in training at West Palm Beach, Fla. Bob's job is to bring the seventh-place A's to a higher ranking.

Giants' Bench Labeled Weak

Frisco Shores Up Behind Front Line

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Giants, steeped in front-line talent, but weak on the bench, are doing their best to shore up their shortcomings.

Short on pinch hitters the Giants Tuesday bolstered their major weakness with the purchase of slugger Dale Long from the Chicago Cubs.

It was the second deal in a week for the Giants and the fifth player transaction completed by major league clubs in the last nine days as activity reached a peak with opening day six days away for the National League and less than two weeks off for the American.

The Giants, beaten by St. Louis 9-5 Tuesday as their exhibition record dropped to 10-11, also have strengthened their bench with the trade that brought Jim Marshall from the Boston Red Sox.

Long, a left-handed hitting outfielder-first baseman, as is Marshall, hit .236 for the Cubs last season with 14 home runs and 37 RBIs in 110 games. Marshall, for whom the Giants gave up pitcher Al Worthington, compiled a .252 mark in 108 games during the 1959 campaign while hitting 11 homers and accounting for 40 RBIs.

In another trade Tuesday, the Kansas City A's swapped pitcher Bob Grim to Cleveland for relief specialist Leo Kiely.

The A's, boosted their spring record to 13-10 with a 13-5 victory over Washington and the Indians defeated the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4.

In other games, New York drubbed the Chicago White Sox 9-3, Detroit clubbed Baltimore 14-4, Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 7-5, Boston beat the Chicago Cubs 12-9 and Milwaukee turned back Cincinnati 5-3, in a night game.

Redlegs Pin Lots of Hope On Jay Hook

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds pin a lot of their future hopes on young Jay Hook, a righthand pitcher who is still erratic.

He was hot and cold again Tuesday night in a five inning workout and Milwaukee hammered out a 5-3 exhibition victory over the Reds.

But the Reds figure Hook is good enough for the big leagues now, except for a little polishing.

"He's got two real good pitches," said Coach Cot Deal. "Real good ones. His fast balls break down with a lot of spin.

"It's a natural sinker; in fact it reminds me a lot of the one thrown by Bucky Walters when he was the scourge of the National League a couple of decades ago.

"His curve is also top drawer, but like all youngsters he had trouble keeping it in the strike zone at times last season."

The Reds needed pitching badly last summer and called Hook up from Seattle July 18. He won his first test, against Chicago, with a six-hitter and finished the season 5-5.

Manager Fred Hutchinson said the former Northwestern University basketball star has come along fast. He said:

"Jay has a good chance to be one of the game's better pitchers. He was a real greenhorn when he came to me at Seattle early last season.

Golfing with ALEX MORRISON

LESSON No. 2

Correct Body Balance and Action

The scientific swing requires the proper heel and toe balance; also the hips moving in harmony with the hands.

Your whole swing goes according to your notions about its fundamentals. The correct swing includes three main fundamentals, namely, body balance and action. These items figure in all swings, long or short. The order in which any player tries to master these fundamentals largely determines how well he executes them.

Body balance and action should be learned first. Failures to do this generally account for the absence of this fundamental and inconsistencies in the performances of all classes of golfers.

A fairly erect posture and a maintaining of the same heel and toe balance must be established before you can execute the proper body movements.

Then, to enjoy harmony between the movement of body and hands, the hips must shift toward the side starting the backswing, also the downswing. Practice this shifting.

Nixon Happy With Indians

TUCSON Ariz. (AP) — Catcher Russ Nixon has reached an understanding with Frank Lane and says now he's glad to be back with the Cleveland Indians after being traded to the Boston Red Sox.

"I feel I've sort of grown up as a result of this mess, and I sure am happy to be with this ball club," Nixon said Tuesday after a long talk with the Indians' general manager.

Lane didn't give him the raise he wanted, "but he made me feel I was wanted on the ball club—and that was more important," Nixon said.

Nixon was traded to Boston for catcher Sammy White and Jim Marshall. White retired, voiding the trade, but meanwhile Red Sox general manager Bucky Harris had given Nixon a $4,000 raise. Nixon lost this when he returned to Cleveland.

Tigers Hope To Open Today At Chillicothe

Welcome sunshine this morning was a sound indication that Circleville High School's baseball team might be able to start its season today at Chillicothe.

The Tigers were scheduled to open against the Cavaliers yesterday. A combination of rain, snow flurries and cold weather forced a postponement.

Providing the Chillicothe diamond dries and the weather gets a little warmer, the game will be played. It will mark the opener for both teams.

Coach Dick Fisher's choice for mound duty probably will fall on either Dan Leonhardt or Sam Weller, with Dave Smith available for relief. Chillicothe is expected to counter with ace hurler Keith Cunningham.

Coach Fisher, still looking for his best starting combination, will have the services of Harry Strawser at catcher, Dick Kline or Steve Helwagen at first, Dave Smith at second, Jim Wellington at shortstop and Jake Bailey at third. Getting the outfield nod in Friday's practice game with Walnut Twp. were Jim Tootle, Larry Justice and Helwagen.

Washington's Camilo Pascaul won six of seven decisions against Kansas City last season.

State Parks Chiefs Shifted

2 New District Offices Set Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Parks has set up two new district park offices in Findlay and Xenia, and shifted some park managers.

The move, Parks Chief V. W. Flickinger said, is in preparation for the influx of summer visitors to recreation areas.

Flickinger said that by decentralization of park administrative work and new assignments "we hope to get maximum use of our people and better serve the public."

The division announced these changes Tuesday:

John C. Cooper of Painesville, State Park in Lake County, transferred to manage East Harbor State Park in Ottawa County.

Neil W. Crosby of Andover, cabin manager at Pymatuning in Ashtabula County, assigned as park manager at Pike Lake State Park in Pike County.

William Hopkins of Bainbridge, formerly manager at Pike Lake, assigned as new manager at Pymatuning.

Everett Rheinscheld of Pleasant Plain, transferred from Stonelick State Park in Clermont County to Rocky Fork as manager.

H. V. Roach of near Andover, post of manager at Blue Rock State Park in Muskingum County.

Jack C. Steele, transferred from Blue Rock to manager's job at Stonelick.

John O. Young of Wellington, from Cowan Lake State Park in Clinton County to manager's job at Hueston Woods State Park in Butler and Preble counties.

Fullmer To Test Kerwin in TV Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A hotel baroom wi be the avlish setting of a 10-round fight tonight between Jay Fullmer, brother of middleweight champion Gene, and Gale Kerwin.

Kerwin, who fights out of Valley Stream, N. Y., is billed as welterweight champion of Canada. Both are in the lighter brackets of the welterweight class and probably wil go in at about 140 pounds for their match to be nationally televised (ABC) at 10 (EST).

Fullmer, 23, has won 19 of 24 fights, including seven by knockout. Kerwin, 24, was victorious in 28 of 38 ring appearances.

Easter Bunny or No, Rabbit Is Ohio's Favorite Game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bad news for the Easter bunny and all his brothers and sisters:

The Wildlife Division reports it official that rabbits "are in first place in the hearts of Buckeye hunters."

Of about 700,000 Ohioans who buy a hunting license each year, nearly 90 per cent reported they hunted rabbits. Second in preference was the gaudy ringneck pheasant. Almost 80 per cent hunted this bird.

Squirrel hunting, long considered a favorite pastime of Americans, was done by 52 per cent of reporting license buyers. Night hunting was followed by 11 per cent, who reported they hunted raccoons. Six to seven per cent of the license holders purchased the special deer hunting permit and fewer still bought the migratory bird hunting stamp required to seek waterfowl.

Said William R. Edwards, the division's farm game biologist "This survey is revealing for it shows which game species provide the most sport and are in most demand. It can also be used in directing game research and management efforts."

It's a little too technical for the interest of the average fisherman, but the Wildlife Division has just published results of a comprehensive fish study of a typical headwater area. Titled "The Little Miami River Headquarters-Stream Investigation" the report summarizes five years of field investigations in land use and its influence on streams and the fishing them. Area for the study was the upper headquaters of the Little Miami in Clark and Greene counties, extending from South Charleston to Xenia and paralleling U.S. 42. More than 100 miles of main streams lie within the watershed.

Among the findings was one that smallmouth spawning success was strongly influenced by sudden changes in temperature and by flooding. Some 2,000 smallmouth bass were handled during the project, largest of which measures 17 inches.

As of March 15, total land holdings of the Division of Wildlife reached 57,113 acres. Many thousands of additional acres are controlled by the division through leases for public hunting and fishing.

Nearly one thousand 10-to-12-inch rainbow trout were stocked last week in Mad River, Champaign County. These fish were raised in the Xenia district pond for experimental purposes. They were tagged before release.

Palmer Gets Favorite Tag In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Golf's grandest extravaganza, the Masters, opens here Thursday with a leather-tough young pro named Arnold Palmer the 6-1 favorite and strong support building up for ex-footballer Mike Souchak.

Palmer, the year's leading money winner with more than $26,000 in earnings himself places the barrel-chested Souchak at the head of the half-dozen or so whom he regards as players to beat for the title.

"I figure the men who are tough on the tour will be toughest here," said the 30-year-old Ligonier, Pa., professional, winner in 1958 and loser by two strokes last year. "I have to go with fellows like Souchak, Ken Venturi, Dow Finsterwald and Gene Littler."

Bookmakers have a slightly differing and a more definite view of the outcome of the four-day, 72-hole medal play over the Augusta National course.

They have made Palmer the solid favorite at 6-1, followed by Venturi, who blew the championship as an amateur in 1956, at 8-1. Cary Middlecoff and three-time winner, Sam Snead, are bracketed at 10-1. Then comes an out-of-shape Ben Hogan and Souchak, 12-1, and Finsterwald and South Africa's Gary Player, 15-1. Other prices range from 20-1 to 100-1.

One '59 Starter In Philies Lineup

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies opening day lineup announced by Manager Eddie Sawyer includes one 1959 regular.

In announcing his starters for next Tuesday's National League opener at Cincinnati, Sawyer said Tuesday he is pinning his hopes and probably risking his job on young players.

The only 1959 regular who will be in the lineup is first baseman Ed Bouchee, who led the Phillies in hitting last year with a .285 average.

Sawyer said Bobby Del Greco, whom he called the standout of the camp, will play regularly in center field while the right and left field positions will be platooned. Del Greco, up from Buffalo of the International League, has failed in four previous major league trials.

The right field duties will be shared by Kenny Walters, 26, a right-handed hitter up from Fort Worth, and left-hander Tony Curry, the Eastern League's most valuable player last year.

Veteran Al Dark, picked up in a trade, will be at third. Joe Koppe, who finished last season at short, will remain there.

Rookie Pancho Herrera, the 25-year-old Buffalo sensation who led the International League in virtually all departments and was voted the league's most valuable player, will be at second, replacing the weak-hitting Sparky Anderson.

Jim Coker, a 24-year-old rookie catcher who hit .287 with Buffalo last year, will do the catching.

Hoover's Music, in second place, lost two of three games to Guernsey Dairy. Ramey Plasters remained in third, moving up one game on Hoover's.

Top Hat Restaurant tied Jerry's Bar for fourth place by taking two of three games.

Junior Fowler had high individual series and single game scores with 582 and 220 scores respectively. Top Hat rolled high team single game with a 936 and Ramey Plasters had high team series with 2,730 pins.

OTHER keglers above the 200 mark were B. Betts, 216; D. Alkire, 215; L. Ferguson, 210 and J. Lawrence, 207. In the 500 bracket were D. Alkire, 576; B. Betts, 516; J. Carter, 506; G. Ramey, 503; L. Ferguson, 502 and G. Weller, 501.

Canadiens Favored For Stanley Cup

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens today were rated a 16-5 favorite to win their fifth straight Stanley Cup. They open the best-of-seven National Hockey League final playoff series with the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Forum Thursday night.

The series will be a replay of last year when Montreal won in five games for a record-shattering fourth straight cup.

During the regular season, the two clubs met 14 times, with the Canadiens winning 10 and tieing one. Montreal outscored the Leafs 51-28.

The teams will play the second game of the final here Saturday night. The third and fourth games will be in Toronto.

NEW BOSS WITH BIG PROBLEM—Looking mighty serious—and with reason—is the Kansas City Athletic's new manager, Bob Elliott, as he directs his club in training at West Palm Beach, Fla. Bob's job is to bring the seventh-place A's to a higher ranking.

Giants' Bench Labeled Weak

Frisco Shores Up Behind Front Line

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Giants, steeped in front-line talent, but weak on the bench, are doing their best to shore up their shortcomings.

Short on pinch hitters the Giants Tuesday bolstered their major weakness with the purchase of slugger Dale Long from the Chicago Cubs.

It was the second deal in a week for the Giants and the fifth player transaction completed by major league clubs in the last nine days as activity reached a peak with opening day six days away for the National League and less than two weeks off for the American.

The Giants, beaten by St. Louis 9-5 Tuesday as their exhibition record dropped to 10-11, also have strengthened their bench with the trade that brought Jim Marshall from the Boston Red Sox.

Long, a left-handed hitting outfielder-first baseman, as is Marshall, hit .236 for the Cubs last season with 14 home runs and 37 RBIs in 110 games. Marshall, for whom the Giants gave up pitcher Al Worthington, compiled a .252 mark in 108 games during the 1959 campaign while hitting 11 homers and accounting for 40 RBIs.

In another trade Tuesday, the Kansas City A's swapped pitcher Bob Grim to Cleveland for relief specialist Leo Kiely.

The A's, boosted their spring record to 13-10 with a 13-5 victory over Washington and the Indians defeated the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4.

In other games, New York drubbed the Chicago White Sox 9-3, Detroit clubbed Baltimore 14-4, Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 7-5, Boston beat the Chicago Cubs 12-9 and Milwaukee turned back Cincinnati 5-3, in a night game.

Redlegs Pin Lots of Hope On Jay Hook

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds pin a lot of their future hopes on young Jay Hook, a righthand pitcher who is still erratic.

He was hot and cold again Tuesday night in a five inning workout and Milwaukee hammered out a 5-3 exhibition victory over the Reds.

But the Reds figure Hook is good enough for the big leagues now, except for a little polishing.

"He's got two real good pitches," said Coach Cot Deal. "Real good ones. His fast balls break down with a lot of spin.

"It's a natural sinker; in fact it reminds me a lot of the one thrown by Bucky Walters when he was the scourge of the National League a couple of decades ago.

"His curve is also top drawer, but like all youngsters he had trouble keeping it in the strike zone at times last season."

The Reds needed pitching badly last summer and called Hook up from Seattle July 18. He won his first test, against Chicago, with a six-hitter and finished the season 5-5.

Manager Fred Hutchinson said the former Northwestern University basketball star has come along fast. He said:

"Jay has a good chance to be one of the game's better pitchers. He was a real greenhorn when he came to me at Seattle early last season.

Golfing with ALEX MORRISON

LESSON No. 2

Correct Body Balance and Action

The scientific swing requires the proper heel and toe balance; also the hips moving in harmony with the hands.

Your whole swing goes according to your notions about its fundamentals. The correct swing includes three main fundamentals, namely, body balance and action. These items figure in all swings, long or short. The order in which any player tries to master these fundamentals largely determines how well he executes them.

Body balance and action should be learned first. Failures to do this generally account for the absence of this fundamental and inconsistencies in the performances of all classes of golfers.

A fairly erect posture and a maintaining of the same heel and toe balance must be established before you can execute the proper body movements.

Then, to enjoy harmony between the movement of body and hands, the hips must shift toward the side starting the backswing, also the downswing. Practice this shifting.

Nixon Happy With Indians

TUCSON Ariz. (AP) — Catcher Russ Nixon has reached an understanding with Frank Lane and says now he's glad to be back with the Cleveland Indians after being traded to the Boston Red Sox.

"I feel I've sort of grown up as a result of this mess, and I sure am happy to be with this ball club," Nixon said Tuesday after a long talk with the Indians' general manager.

Lane didn't give him the raise he wanted, "but he made me feel I was wanted on the ball club—and that was more important," Nixon said.

Nixon was traded to Boston for catcher Sammy White and Jim Marshall. White retired, voiding the trade, but meanwhile Red Sox general manager Bucky Harris had given Nixon a $4,000 raise. Nixon lost this when he returned to Cleveland.

Cousy Sparks Celtics to Playoff Win

BOSTON (AP)—"Cousy's back. That's the story."

Boston's Bill Russell was talking about the great performance of teammate Bob Cousy, who led the Celtics to a vital 127-102 playoff victory over the St. Louis Hawks Tuesday night.

The decision gave Boston a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series that shifts to St. Louis for the sixth game Thursday night. The seventh game if necessary, will be in Boston Saturday afternoon.

Cousy was the key to the decision that gave the defending champions the whip hand in the playoffs. The long-time star had been in one of the worst slumps of his 10-year professional career. He had announced that if he didn't break out of the doldrums he would bench himself for the good of the team.

There was no need to.

The Boston Garden crowd of 13,909 gave him a standing ovation when he took a breather midway through the second quarter. By that time he had engineered a drive that broke the game open, giving Boston a 48-30 lead.

St. Louis was only one point back, 25-24, when the big push started. Cousy scored on one of his dazzling layups, worming his way past three defenders. Then he struck on a long, one-hand push shot. Then he set up Tommy Heinsohn for another and Boston was in front to stay. Cousy wound up with 21 points and 10 assists.

State Tax Take Climbs over 1959

The report showed state revenues totaling $1,208,080,763 between last July 1 and March 31. Receipts for the same year-earlier period were $1,008,583,193.

Expenditures between July 1 and March 31 hit $1,204,625,693. For the same period a year earlier they were $1,152,445,579.

She Gets Her Bird

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) — Patrolman Bob Counter found a parakeet perched on a parking meter, took it into a store and had it caged. Later Mrs. Vearl Williams entered the store to buy a parakeet to replace the one she had lost.

Inside the cage was Mrs. Williams' parakeet, Budgie. She reported it was the sixth time Budgie had done a.w.o.l., headed for home with the bird.

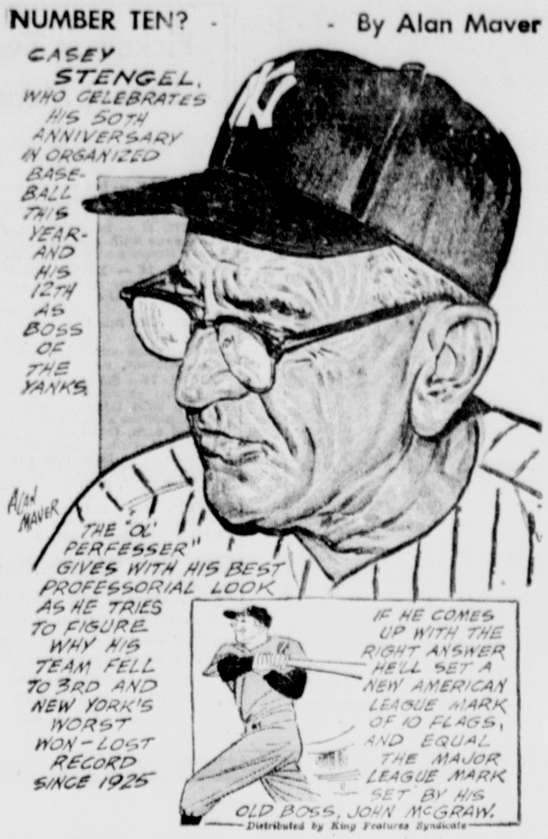
NUMBER TEN? - By Alan Maver



Views on Television - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

They were Charlotte Armstrong, who wrote "Incident At a Corner," and Alfred Hitchcock, who directed it.

The story was simple and chilling. An elderly man whose job is guarding a school crossing gets fired after an anonymous note, warning that he should be kept away from young children, is found by the mother of a little girl.

It is a lie, of course, and the drama concerns efforts of his family to smoke out his accuser. The best parts of the show were perceptive character sketches: a neurotic mother, an arrogant banker's wife, a frightened school principal who just wants to avoid trouble. Along with this, the drama demonstrated how easily a man's reputation can be destroyed by any evil wisher armed with just a pencil and piece of paper.

It was a dandy hour, convincingly acted by a cast including Vera Miles, George Peppard, Paul Hartman and Leora Dana.

Recommended tonight: "Music for a Spring Night," ABC, 7:30 8:30—a session with folk and ballad singers, including Tom Scott, Brook Peters and Stephen Douglas; Perry Como Show NBC, 9-10—with guest Eve Arden; Steel Hour, CBS, 10-11—"How To Make a Killing," comedy drama with Eva Gabor and Claude Dauphin

Cousy Sparks Celtics to Playoff Win

BOSTON (AP)—"Cousy's back. That's the story."

Boston's Bill Russell was talking about the great performance of teammate Bob Cousy, who led the Celtics to a vital 127-102 playoff victory over the St. Louis Hawks Tuesday night.

The decision gave Boston a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series that shifts to St. Louis for the sixth game Thureday night. The seventh game if necessary, will be in Boston Saturday afternoon.

Cousy was the key to the decision that gave the defending champions the whip hand in the playoffs. The long-time star had been in one of the worst slumps of his 10-year professional career. He had announced that if he didn't break out of the doldrums he would bench himself for the good of the team.

There was no need to.

The Boston Garden crowd of 13,909 gave him a standing ovation when he took a breather midway through the second quarter. By that time he had engineered a drive that broke the game open, giving Boston a 48-30 lead.

St. Louis was only one point back, 25-24, when the big push started. Cousy scored on one of his dazzling layups, worming his way past three defenders. Then he struck on a long, one-hand push shot. Then he set up Tommy Heinsohn for another and Boston was in front to stay. Cousy wound up with 21 points and 10 assists.

She Gets Her Bird

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) — Patrolman Bob Counter found a parakeet perched on a parking meter, took it into a store and had it caged. Later Mrs. Vearl Williams entered the store to buy a parakeet to replace the one she had lost.

Inside the cage was Mrs. Williams' parakeet, Budgie. She reported it was the sixth time Budgie had done a.w.o.l., headed for home with the bird.

NUMBER TEN? - By Alan Maver

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

They were Charlotte Armstrong, who wrote "Incident At a Corner," and Alfred Hitchcock, who directed it.

The story was simple and chilling. An elderly man whose job is guarding a school crossing gets fired after an anonymous note, warning that he should be kept away from young children, is found by the mother of a little girl.

It is a lie, of course, and the drama concerns efforts of his family to smoke out his accuser. The best parts of the show were perceptive character sketches: a neurotic mother, an arrogant banker's wife, a frightened school principal who just wants to avoid trouble. Along with this, the drama demonstrated how easily a man's reputation can be destroyed by any evil wisher armed with just a pencil and piece of paper.

Recommended tonight: "Music for a Spring Night," ABC, 7:30 8:30—a session with folk and ballad singers, including Tom Scott, Brook Peters and Stephen Douglas; Perry Como Show NBC, 9-10—with guest Eve Arden; Steel Hour, CBS, 10-11—"How To Make a Killing," comedy drama with Eva Gabor and Claude Dauphin

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The whites of South Africa want it both ways.

1. They suppress the nonwhites, who outnumber them at least three to one, by rigid segregation and other indignities.

2. But they depend so much on the cheap, nonwhite labor that they beat, shoot, whip or jail those who stay away from work or encourage others to do so.

Thus the pot under which the Afrikaners started a fire is boiling. The Afrikaners are the white descendants of the early Dutch settlers. The fire began in 1948.

In that year the Afrikaners' Nationalist party came to power and has remained in control of the government since.

Immediately and thereafter it invoked harsh restrictions on the Negroes—about 10 million—and those of mixed blood—perhaps 2 million. There are 3 million whites.

The basic measure is apartheid or segregation.

A Negro cannot remain in a town more than 72 hours unless he was born there or has 15 years' continuous residence or 10 years of unbroken employment there.

Negro servants never live in their employers' homes. White doors are locked and burglar alarms turned on each night.

The plants and gold mines use Negro labor at wages far below what white workers would accept. Negroes can't hold skilled jobs. It is illegal for them to strike.

More recently the Nationalist government of Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd required Negroes to carry passes which they would have to produce on demand if they wished to move around.

Eventually two Negro organizations began to stir in protest—the Pan Africanist Congress and the African National Congress.

Last month the former called on Negroes to demonstrate against the pass system by going without passes and letting themselves be arrested and thus, by being in jail, damage the whites' economy.

The first sensational result of the Negroes' action against passes came last week when between 70 and 80 of them were shot, and perhaps 200 wounded, by police while demonstrating outside a jail at Sharpeville where Many Negroes were locked up for not having passes.

That word — Sharpeville — will probably become famous or infamous in African history.

Then the two Negro organizations, as a protest against the massacre, urged Negroes to stay away from their jobs. The South African economy, already hurt by the antipass demonstrations, was now truly crippled.

The white Nationalist government, armed with all the power it needed through special laws for handling emergencies, hit back by jailing several hundred Negro leaders and, reportedly, whites who were sympathetic to them.

While many Negroes finally returned to their jobs, many didn't. Police moved in with guns, clubs and whips to smash those who still stayed home and away from work or encouraged others to stay away.

In this moment of crisis the South African white opposition party in the government joined up with Verwoerd's white Afrikaners by voting with them for swift Senate action to outlaw the two Negro organizations.

The United Nations Security Council passed a resolution last Friday calling on the South African government to abandon its segregation policy. The United States was among the nations which voted for it.

But segregation of Negroes in this country is a sensitive problem when this government deals with other countries, particularly nonwhite ones.

South Africa's foreign minister promptly reacted to the Securi' Council vote by calling it hypocrisy. He said: "One marvels at the blatant hypocrisy of the many countries that lodge complaints against South Africa."
